ESTABLISHED IN 1897. GREENSBORO, N. C., FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 16, 1911. VOL. 14. NO. 273.

THE MERCHANTS MAKE PROTEST

Commissioners Asked to Modify Sidewalk Clearance Ordinance—Amendment May Be Drawn.

At yesterday afternoon's session of the Board of Commissioners a number of the merchants of the city, headed by President Phoenix and Secretary Williams of the Merchants' Associtaon, appeared and protested against the enforcement of the ordinance requiring that the merchants keep the sidewalks in front of their places of business clear of obstructions.

The merchants contended that it would mean a loss of trade to some unless they were allowed to display their wares on the sidewalks in plain view of passersby. They were agreed that a goodly portion of the sidewalk should be kept free from obstructions, but contented that a few feet next the buildings would not hinder the passage of pedestrians. As a result of their visit it is more than probable that the present ordinance will be amended by providing that on Elm street ten feet shall be kept clear north of the railroad and eight feet south of the railroad, and providing further that all goods merchandise, etc., displayed on the sidewalk shall be kept under glass covers.

Commissioner Brown thought the entire sidewalks should be kept clear; that the methods employed by the merchants in allowing produce, such as fruits, vegetables, etc., to set unprotected on the sidewalks was most unsanitary and that it should be removed more for this reason than because the passage of pedestrians is hindered. He stated that scores of citizens had commended his action in instructing the police to have the sidewalks cleared.

The matter was considered at length by the board, definite action being postponed. Until the ordinance is amended Commissioner Brown stated the present ordinance will be enforced.

WIILL BEGIN WORK ON MASONIC AND EASTERN STAR HOME

The building committee of the Masonic and Eastern Star Home, composed of Dr. F. N. Winchester, of Charlotte; Rev. J. W. Rowe, of Wingate; J. A. Parker, of Durham; W. H. Woodbury, of Murphy, and L. M. Clymer, of Greensboro, met yesterday morning at 10:30 o'clock at the McAdoo Hotel for a business session concerning the erection of the Home. As previously stated, a beautiful site west of Lindley Park has been selected for the location of this Home for Aged and Indigent Masons and members of the O. E. S.

The committee discussed the construction of the Home with the successful bidders for the contracts, which were authorized to be signed with the Ange Construction Company, of Winston-Salem, and with the local firm of Hunt Bros. for the plumbing and heating of the building. The work of erecting this handsome and modern building is to be started as early as possible and rushed forward for early completion and occupancy.

DEGREES CONFERRED ON FIVE BY THE ROYAL ARCH MASONS

At the regular meeting last night of Chorazin Chapter, R. A. M., five candidates were given the degrees of Mark Master and Past Master. A special meeting will be held tonight at which the degree of M. E. and Royal Arch will be conferred. Refreshments will be served. A full attendance is expected. Visiting companions are always made welcome.

THE NURSES WILL FINISH BUSINESS AND TAKE OUTING

Following Final Session This Morning Delegates Will Take Trip to Battle Ground—Reception This Afternoon—Several Instructive Papers Read Yesterday.

The State Nurses' Association which has been in session at the Normal snice Wednesday night will close today after an important morning meeting and several social features in the afternoon.

The first event on the program today will be held at 9 o'clock, this being the annual meeting of the Red Cross State Committee of the Association. At 10 o'clock the delegates will go into the final session and two papers dealing with the work of the nurse will be read. Miss A. W. Insch, of Charlotte, will read her paper on "Oral Prophylaxis," and Miss McIntosh of Wilmington, will discuss the theme, "Nursing of the Aged."

At the conclusion of this meeting the delegates will be carried on a sight-seeing trip in automobiles to Guilford Battleground. A couple of hours will be spent in the visit to this historic spot, and on the return all the delegates of the association will be the guests of the local Woman's Club at a reception.

Yesterday was a busy day for the association. At the morning session three well prepared and highly instructive papers were read before an enthusiastic audience of delegates. Miss Bertie Dunn, of Raleigh, read a paper, "A Plea for the Nurse Tubercular Victim." The article was enlightening, concerning the many sacrifices made by nurses in attending consumptive patients and the terrible sufferings which many of them must endure after contracting the disease. She told of the struggle of the State Association to build a sanitarium in western North Carolina where the nurses so unfortunate can be treated to the best advantage.

The second paper was read by Miss Cleone Hobbs, of this city, who is president of the association. She discussed "A Plan for Special Preliminary Education for Nurse Applicants in North Carolina."

Miss Kirk Powers, of Winston-Salem, was the author of an interesting paper, using as her theme the indispensability of the nurse in the work of the doctor, "The Nurse, the Aid to the Doctor."

The afternoon session was devoted to the business of the association and the various officers and committee chairmen returned the reports of the work accomplished.

Englishman Arrested as Fugitive From Justice—Wanted in Pittsburg.

Special to The Telegram.

New York June 15.—Alfred George Curphey, a young Englihsman, named as co-respondent in the divorce suit of Andrew W. Mellon, the Pittsburg multimillionaire, and Dr. Thomas Kirkbride, Curphey's friend, were arrested at the Rirz-Carlton Hotel tonight as fugitives from justice. The indictments were found in Pittsburg.

CAN CASTRO COME BACK?

Not if Vigilance of State Department Can Prevent It.

Washington, June 15.—Cipriano Castro, former president of Venezuela, now said to be planning to return himself to power, will get no aid from any persons in the United States if redoubled vigilance of the secret agents of the State Department ind the Department of Justice can prevent it.

The report of Castro's presence at Haiti caused orders to be issued today which will have the effect of a double guard being set at New Orleans and other points along the Gulf coast from which a filibustering expedition might find aid.

English Critics Find Fault With New Memorial to Queen Victoria

ENGLISH critics are not entirely satisfied with the new memorial to Queen Victoria, which stands in front of Buckingham palace and is the result of nine years' labor. The memorial is a marble shaft surmounted by a figure symbolizing Victory, while allegorical figures around the base typify Truth, Motherhood, Justice, Peace and other attributes of Queen Victoria and Great Britain as the sculptor, Thomas Brock, sees them. One of the principal features of the memorial is a statue of Queen Victoria, and it is this statue that has provoked the most severe criticisms. The statue is shown in the picture above. Members of her family are said to have called it a good likeness of the departed ruler, but this is disputed by others. Attention is also called to the fact that she is shown holding a scepter unlike any known in England, and she is also wearing a small crown while holding the scepter, "something she never did in real life," asserts a writer in the London Sphere. This same writer also declares that the design that purports to be the arms of Scotland is defective. In summing up the case against the memorial the critic says: "The thing should create a thrill or stir of the heart in the breast of the loyal observer, but this is just what it seems impossible for these writhing mermaids and dull faced mothers to produce. One fails to get the impression of a living pulse beneath the marble."

MANAGER HILL DECLARES THAT HE LOVES COMPETITION

This Declaration of Vice-President of American Tobacco Company in Deposition Feature of Ware-Kramer Hearing Yesterday.

Special to Telegram.

Raleigh, N. C., June 15—The deposition of Vice President and Manager Percival S. Hill of the American Tobacco Company, in which the plaintiffs seek to show business practices in violation of the Sherman anti-trust law and that tended to the destruction of their cigarette business, engaged the Federal court again today for the entire morning session in the case of Ware-Kramer Tobacco Company vs. American Tobacco Company. The afternoon session yesterday was also taken up with reading from this deposition and arguing issues arising.

In a deposition by Vice President Hill, he declared that he loved competiton, that competitors increased the demand for new customers. The deposition was taken by the plaintiffs and brought out the fact in the same connection that Vice President Hill wrote a letter to W. M. Carter asking him to find the address of a car of cigarettes shipped by Ware-Kramer Company to China, and he could shut off that market from them; that the address was secured and the British American Tobacco Company was notified and the plaintiff never shipped any more cigarettes to China. Asked if he loved competition so well, why he wanted to shut the Ware-Kramer Company out of China, he replied that he did not consider that competition, "but scalping the business."

The Hill deposition engaged the court for the whole afternoon. It reviews the absorption of the Wells-Whitehead Company by the American Tobacco Company in 1905, the manipulation of coupons in cigarette packages; reviewed a quarter million dollar loss to Wells-Whitehead Company through putting an immense quantity of defective goods on the market and having to redeem them; reviewed the employment of W. M. Carter of A. T. Co., Wells-Whitehead Company and finally by Ware-Kramer Company; gives Carter a high character and sets out that he and Carter have always had the most cordial relations; reviewed the tobacco corporations the A. T. Co. has absorbed, and set out that the company never purchased other tobacco corporations with a view to stifling trade, but purely for the purpose of making money out of the company's business. It was in this connection that Vice President Hill declared his love of competition and lending interest to trade and finding new customers.

In the part of the deposition read today there were letters by Hill to various jobbers as to the demand for certain brands and lending money to them to procure favorable handling of American Tobacco Company goods. To Chisholm Bros., Memphis, Tenn., was sent a check for $500 "in a spirit of good will." There was long argument on the question of evidence showing damage to Ware-Kramer Company's White Rolls brand. The Hill deposition was completed this afternoon.

A feature of the reading of the Hill deposition was that in which he expressed indignation at the claim on the part of the Ware-Kramer Tobacco Company that W. M. Carter was in the employ of the American Tobacco Company at any time during the period of his connection with the Ware-Kramer Company. This was bearing on the phase of the case in which the plaintiff contends that, carrying out a conspiracy with the American Tobacco Company, W. M. Carter procured stock in the Ware-Kramer Company and secured the position of sales manager for himself, thereafter directing this department of the business of the A. T. Company's competitor in such a way as to steadily decrease the business of the plaintiff.

TRAGEDY

On Burning Boat Averted by Cool Captain And Brave Engineer

Special to Telegram.

Paducah, Ky., June 15.—The cool head of Captain Lowry and the bravery of his engineer alone prevented a fearful river tragedy early this morning when the steamer, John L. Lowry, was burned opposite Smithland, Ky.

The boat was returning from an excursion and was crowded with fifty passengers and a crew of 15. The steamer was coming slowly up the Ohio when the fire broke out near the engine. An explosion of several barrels of oil caused the flames to spread rapidly and added to the danger greatly.

The passengers were aroused from their sleep and panic-stricken, rushed for the deck. The clear-headed move of the crew prevented many from leaping overboard. Captain Lowry ran the boat at full speed for the Illinois shore and all the passengers escaped. The boat is a total loss.

BIG BAKERIES COMBINE

Fifteen Cities in East and South Are Included.

New York, June 10.—Twenty-one big baking companies in cities dotting the East and South from Boston to St. Louis and New Orleans threw in their lot together today, merging under the name of the General Baking Company, with a total capital of $20,000,000 in stock and $5,000,000 in bonds. The new chain of bakeries will be operated in fifteen cities.

"In the formation of the General Baking Company," the announcement reads, "there is no thought or purpose of the establishment of a monopoly in the manufacture or sale of bread. Such a monopoly would be impossible, as in most localities, with few exceptions, only one baking company has been acquired, leaving competition open to hundreds of others."

ABLE ADDRESSES HEARD BY NEGRO SCHOOL TEACHERS

The sessions of the North Carolina Colored Teachers Associaton, now being held in the A. & M. College, continue to grow in interest. The problem of preparing the negro youth to meet the issues of these exacting days is being given much attention.

Many of the leading colored teachers of the State are here, not to have a "good time," but to exchange ideas, study facts, and if possible devise plans by which the race can be led to higher planes of thought and life. The trend is decidedly upward.

The programs rendered yesterday were interesting and will doubtless have a telling effect upon the life of the people with whom the teachers wil have to deal. Profs. J. A. McRae, of Ashboro; F. M. Kennedy, of Wniston; Dr.s. A. W. Pegues, of Raleigh; O. Faduma, of Troy, and A. F. Ruffin, of Winston, delivered strong addresses. Profs. McRae and Kennedy showed that the graded and State Normal Schools are doing a great work for their people. A. F. Ruffin spoke for the Women's Clubs. Dr. Pegues told of what the State is doing for the deaf and dumb of the race. In so many words he said that North Carolina was not a good State to leave. Dr. Faduma spoke on "The Value of Education in Civic Life." He maintained properly educated youth are desirable citizens.

LEGACY FOR SUFFRAGE

Income of $5,000 Left to Help "the Cause" Until It Wins.

Mount Holly, N. J., June 15.—By the will of Rebecca, wife of Late Battinger, of Morrestown, admitted to probate, she directs that $5.000 of her "estate shall be held in trust and the income shall be paid annually to the Woman's National Suffrage Association until such time as women shall be given the right to vote in all States." The principal of the fund is then to be paid to a niece.

The testatrix also directs that her body shall be cremated and the ashes scattered over her rose garden at Morrestown.

THE SCOUT CARS PASSED THROUGH CITY YESTERDAY

Party Touring Proposed Central Highway Made Brief Stop—Left For Graham Where Meeting Was Held Last Night—Praised Guilford's Roads.

The scout cars making the initial trip over the proposed Central Highway passed through Greensboro yesterday afternoon, making only a brief stop in the city. The cars left at 5 o'clock for Graham where a meeting in the interest of the project was held last night. The cars will conclude the run this afternoon, when Raleigh is reached. The cars came here from High Point.

In the party were H. B. Varner, president of the State Good Roads Association, Joseph Hyde Pratt, State Geologist; J. A. Wellons, of Smithfield, and William Dunn, of New Bern. The cars have been on the road for the past ten days, having started at Paint Rock on the Tennessee line. A few weeks ago the eastern end of the highway, Beaufort to Raleigh, was traversed and when the cars roll into Raleigh this afternoon the proposed route across the State will have been covered.

The object of the trip across the State at this time is to note the condition of the roads in the counties through which the proposed highway will pass and to arouse enthusiam in good roads. Inasmuch as the Guilford people have already been educated along this line, a stop over here was not deemed necesary and the scouts continued on their way to put in a few words for good roads in Alamance towns. The party has been received with true appreciation at every stop made and it is safe to say that the interest aroused in the work of building good roads will yield fine results.

Durnig the ten minutes the gentlemen composing the party remained in Greensboro they were busy praising Guilford's road between here and High Point. This all agreed, was by far the best piece of road the cars had rolled over during the entire run across the State. Several good roads advocates gathered around the cars and explained the manner in which the road had been treated the cost and value of treating newly macadamized roads to an oil coating before the macadam covering has worn off, and blown away. About the worst stretch of roads the scouts encountered in the county was inside the city limits, several of the streets traversed being greatly in need of repair.

MORGAN

Gets Control of Another Bank—Assets Under Control Exceed Billion Dollars.

Special to Telegram.

New York, June 15.—The Bankers Trust Company has bought the holdings of the Equitable Life Assurance in the Mercantile Trust Company. With this transfer of assets of $72,000,000 the aggregate assets of banks undert he control of J. Pierpont Morgan passes the billion dollar mark. The deposits in these banks exceed $1,100,000,000.

TREASURY IN GOOD SHAPE

Uncle Sam's Finances in Better Condition Than for Two Years.

Washington, D. C., June 15.—The end of this month promises to find the Federal Treasury in a better condition than it has enjoyed for two years. While the fiscal year already shows an ordinary surplus of more than $8,000,000, as against a deficit of $13,000,000 a year ago at this time, there is promise that the total deficit now standing at $21,000,000 may be much reduced before the new fiscal year begins.

All corporation taxes should be in by the end of the month. Nearly $2,000,000 has been paid so far this month. The estimated total income from that source is $26,000,000.

All sources of income except customs receipts have produced more this year than last year. Expenditures will show little change.

THE SHORTAGE OVER $100,000

Directors of Bank of Tarboro Make Plans For Protection of Depositors, However.

Raleigh, June 15.—The Corporation Commission was notified today by State Bank Examiner J. K. Doughton that he finds the shortage in the Bank of Tarboro, whose cashier, Luther Hart, suicided yesterday on the arrival of the examiner to investigate financial complications, will exceed $100,000. He says that it will take several days to go through the affairs of the bank for a complete statement. Assistant Cashier Hussey, he says is still in jail in default of $15,000 bond, for the part he is believed to have had in wrecking the bank. He has, however, turned over all his property to the bank and will thus make restoration as far as possible.

Tarboro, June 15.—At a meeting of the stockholders and directors of the Bank of Tarboro, held late Wednesday night, definite action was taken to protect al of the many depositors of the institution and to reorganize the bank as soon as State Bank Examiner J. Kemy Doughton files his statement of the bank's condition with the corporation commission.

Many rumors have been heard as the cause of the shortage of the cashier, but it is thought that when the truth is known all of the money taken was spent in living, and that he was not addicted to speculation of any nature. The entire community is shocked at the sudden trend of events in connection with the bank wihch carried deposits to the amount of $520,000.

The funeral services of Mr. Hart were conducted from his home this afternoon by Rev. R. C. Craven, pastor of Trinity Methodist church of Durham, who was formerly pastor of the Methodist church here. The funeral was largely attended.

BUSY WEEK FOR TAFT

Will Celebrate Wedding Anniversary and Take Long Trip.

Washington, D. C., June 15.—President Taft will have a busy time next week, starting on Monday with the silver wedding celebration at the White House. Leaving town Tuesday, the President will travel several hundred miles by land and sea, will make possibly a half-dozen speeches and will not get back to the White House before Saturday.

The trip will include New York, New Haven, Conn., Fall River, Mass., and Providence, R. I. He will leave Washington for New York Tuesday morning; will spend the afternoon in New York and depart for New Haven that night. At New Haven the President will attend exercises and the meeting of the Yale corporation, of which he is a member.

From New Haven he will return to New York, and Thursday night will speak at Manhattan Beach to the New York Bankers' Association and the Canadian Club of New York. The Aldrich currency plan and reciprocity will furnish him with subjects for these speeches. That night he will sail from Seagate, L. I., on the Mayflower for Fall River, where, Friday afternoon, he will make an address at the 200th anniversary celebration of the foundation of the New England cotton industry.

From Fall River the President will go to Providence to become the guest of the Conservative Club. He will leave Providence Friday night on the Mayflower for New York, and from there return to Washington.

HIS ONE BEST BETZ.

Senor Pulido Leads Her to Altar in Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Pa., June 15—Miss Hosalean Sybilla Betz, one of the wealthiest young women in Philadelphia, and Senor Don Angusto F. Pulido, of Venezuela, were married here today in the presence of a small company of intimate friends. The ceremony was performed in St. Matthew's Lutheran church by the Rev. Edwin Heyl Delk, D. D.

The bride is the daughter of the late J. Fred Betz, Jr. Senor Pulido was formany years first secretary of the Venezuelan legation at Washington, and recently was appointed first secretary of the Venezuelan legation at Berlin.

TYPOGRAPHICAL UNION LABEL GREENSBORO

Senator Root is smooth but his efforts have always been directed to making the highway of political progress rough.

Uncle Sam is short on sailors, it is announced. There is also a shortage of enlistments for the army and of cadets at West Point. The campaign for peace is clearly winning the victory..

The Greenville Piedmont notes the fact that another census will be taken in about nine years. At that time perhaps Greenville will be able to make a showing which will justify it in claiming to be "The City of Success."

Undoubtedly Lorimer occupies a purchased seat in the Senate, but he is in good company for a man of his character. There is more than one other Senator occupying a seat bought directly or indirectly.

The Durham Herald thinks the old political dodge of posing as the friend of the farmers is destined to fall into disuse. The farmers have caught on to the dodge, consequently it does not work as smoothly as it once did.

The Wilmington Dispatch has a straight line on Judge Gary. It believes the Judge is willing for the government to control the steel trust provided the steel trust is permitted to own the government.

One of the newspapers in speaking of Mary Garden says that on one occasion "she wore an air of indifference." Perhaps this was a new costume for Mary, but on many occasions she appears clad in little in addition to encompassing atmosphere.

The Columbia State mentions the fact that the teams of Anderson and Charleston are holding down the little end of the baseball percentages in South Carolina. In the Carolina Association, however, Anderson has been receiving able assistance from Charlotte, a town of some prominence in the State of Mecklenburg.

The United States Senate is not fooling anybody by so amending bills that they will not be passed by the House. The House has a very fair idea of what the people want in the way of legislation, and when the Senate proposes something the people do not want, the reason is evident. It is done to block legislation and prevent the passage of measures wanted by the majority but opposed by the special interests.

The Mocksville Herald thinks that Davie county is the garden of North Carolina and only needs good roads to complete the sum of the happiness of its people. Well, the time is coming when every county in the State will have good roads; and at the rate interest in highway improvement is being aroused, that time is not many years distant.

THE ELECTION OF UNITED STATES SENATORS BY THE PEOPLE.

The Norfolk Landmark thinks that the cause of the popular election of United States Senators was advanced by the adoption by the Senate of the resolution proposing that the Constitution be so amended as to provide for it; but the Landmark fears that the Bristow amendment which was tacked on to the resolution by the vote of the Vice President, will kill the measure, believing that three-fourths of the States will be unwilling to ratify it in that form. The Landmark says:

"The sentiment in favor of the direct election of Senators is undoubtedly strong in all sections of the country, but it is quite likely that a sufficient number of Legislatures would reject the present proposed amendment to defeat it on account of the Bristow idea which would give to the Federal Government supervision of the election of Senators. It is not certain that the amendment to the resolution is of great consequence, but it is evident that some Legislatures will oppose it on that account.

"Nor does the extent to which the amendment would give the Federal Government authority to interfere in the election of Senators seem to be clearly understood by everybody. Senator Rayner of Maryland, who has been one of the most consistent advocates of the popular election of Senators without Federal supervision, throws light upon this phase of the question in the following statement made after the Bristow amendment had been adopted:

'I am not afraid of the Bristow amendment. While I voted against it, still when the amendment was adopted I voted for the resolution with the Bristow amendment in it.

'I am satisfied that no practical danger will result from the adoption of this amendment. The amendment is now in the Constitution, so far as the election of members of the House of Representatives is concerned, and the Bristow amendment only places the election of Senators upon the same plane with members of the House. In other words, it gives to Congress the same supervisory power over the election of Senators by the people that Congress now has under the Constitution over the election of members of the House of Representatives.'

"Senator Rayner also believes that he can convince the people of Maryland that the amendment is not dangerous. It may be that the people of other States also can be made to regard it as harmless. It cannot be charged that the Federal Government has given evidence of desire to interfere in Congressional elections.

"But the direct election of Senators is coming, whether the present resolution providing for it is ratified or rejected."

Both Senator Raynor and the Landmark may be mistaken in their estimate of the effect of the Senate measure with the Bristow amendment attached, but the Landmark is correct in saying that the election of Senators by direct vote of the people is a certainty of the near future. The majority of the country's voters are determined to place United States Senators where they will be directly responsible to the people of the State they represent. When this has been done there will be few or none in that body as a result of the use of money and improper influence. There will be, also, more responsiveness to the wishes of the people in the Senate. When Senators realize that they will have to meet their constituencies face to face and account to the voters for their official records they will be slow to ignore the demands of the people. The election of Senators by direct vote would undoubtedly have a salutary effect upon the conduct of Senators as a body and it would vastly improve the personnel of the body, as viewed from the standpoint of the common people.

COLLEGE NEWS FROM ELON

Special to Telegram.

Elon College, June 16.—Things on the hill have become very quiet and dignified since the gay and joyous commencement throng took its departure. A few visitors are yet in the village and add to the social life of the community in various ways, but in a few days they too will have gone and the college will have settled down for the warm summer months.

The president's office is very busy at this time, getting things in line for the summer's work. It is too early yet to predict on the results in the way of attendance next year, but it looks good even now to those on the inside. Requests for catalogues and other information to entrance here in the fall are daily coming in and with all the prospects seem bright.

The new catalogue for 1911 and announcements for 1912 is now ready for distribution. It contains 112 pages and gives all necessary information respecting costs, equipment, advantages, etc. It shows an enrollment in all departments last year of 240.

The executive board of the board of trustees of the college will hold a meeting here on Tuesday next, to dispose of certain routine matters which the board of trustees were unable to attend to at their recent session. The members of this board are Dr. D. R. M. Morrow and Dr. P. H. Fleming, Burlington, Mr. Kemp B. Johnson, Raleigh, Rev. J. W. Wellons and Dr. G. S. Watson of this place.

His many friends at Elon, where his father and mother, Mr. and Mrs. C. A. Boone still live, were glad to note the honor and distinction recently conferred on Dr. W. H. Boone in his selection as health officer of the city of Durham. Dr. Boone graduated from the college with the class of '94, and then pursued his medical course to completion and has since been practicing medicine with success.

Mr. S. C. Harrell, of the class of '09, who for the past two years has been teaching at Holland, Va., has been elected to a position as instructor in Defiance College, Defiance, Ohio, which is the leading college in the northeastern section of that state.

W. H. Fleming, of Burlington, N. C., manager of the baseball team for next year is strenuously working to put out the best team that Elon College has ever had. It is Mr. Fleming's hope, with the co-operation of students and faculty to play clean athletics next year and to allow no man on the team who has received money for playing ball and is receiving money or any other consideration while a student in Elon College. The following regulations covering inter-collegiate athletics have been adopted by the Faculty, approved by the board of trustees, and accepted in good faith by the Athletic Association. Mr. Fleming will do his very best to put them into practical operation. The regulations are as follows:

Regulations Covering Inter-Collegiate Athletics.

1—Intercollegiate games are allowed, except football, under efficient faculty supervision.

2—The Athletic Association is not permitted to make any debts which it is not prepared to pay.

3—No student is eligible to play in any intercollegiate game until he has been a registered student thirty days in the fall next, preceding such a game, and by January 10th, in the spring, taking full work, and making an average grade of 80 per cent.

4—A student having as many as ten demerits against his record is thereby debarred from participation as a player.

5—No student who receives financial aid, directly or indirectly, by reason of his playing on the team shall be allowed in any intercollegiate game.

6—A faculty representive shall accompany the team when on a trip, at which time the same college regulations, as to student deportment are in force as at the college.

7—The athletic initial "E" shall be awarded at the end of the athletic season in the spring of each year to those students who have played in 80 per cent of the intercollegiate games of the year of any one sport, such as tennis, basketball and baseball, and no other student shall be entitled to wear the initial letter.

8—The arrangements for all intercollegiate games and matters of athletic finances shall be under the joint management of a committee from the faculty and the transactions of this committee shall be subject to the approval of the faculty.

ABOUT THE PEOPLE COMING AND GOING AT WHITSETT

Whitsett, June 15.—David White of Greensboro and Albert C. Boon of Pleasant Garden, were here yesterday looking over some real estate in this section.

Misses Georgia Clapp and Agnes Clapp returned yesterday from Asheville where they spent the past week visiting points of interest among the mountains.

Chas. L. Carroll, of the Greensboro league team, spent Sunday here with friends.

The new catalogue of Whitsett Institute is expected from the printer next week. Many applications are now coming in and a splendid school is expected the coming year.

W. P. Smith and R. O. Walker were here the first of the week visiting. Mr. Smith is now with W. T. Sockwell of Greensboro. Mr. Walker will leave the latter part of the week for his home in Wayne county.

Three Cuban students are spending the summer here. Some others are expected to arrive later to enter school this fall term.

The fall term of the school will open August 30th, which is the usual date of opening—the last Wednesday in August.

A fine rain fell here Monday, and farmers are busy working their crops. The most of the wheat crop has already been harvested; it is good this year.

W. C. Rankin, late of the Durham City Schools, has been here for some days, but will leave for Shelby soon, where he will engage in business. He will not teach the coming year.

W. K. Perrett, who graduated here in 1904, sailed for the Phillippine Islands last week where he will teach the coming year. He has lately been in the State of Washington.

GREAT THOUGHTS ON AFFECTION.

There is so little to redeem the dry mass of follies and errors from which the materials of this life are composed that anything to love or reverence becomes, as it were, the Sabbath for the mind.—Bulwer Lytton.

The objects that we have known in better days are the main props that sustain the weight of our affections, and give us strength to await our future lot —Wm. Hazlitt.

Hearts may be attracted by assumed qualities, but the affections are only to be fixed by those that are real.—De Moy.

I may not to the world impart
The secret of its power,
But treasured in my inmost heart
I keep my faded flower.—Ellen C. Howarth.

The heart will commonly govern the head, and it is certain that any strong passion, set the wrong way, will soon infatuate even the wisest of men; therefore the first part of wisdom is to watch the affections.—Dr. Waterland.

Affection is a garden, and without it there would not be a verdant spot on the surface of the globe.

Fathers alone a father's heart can know
What secret tides of still enjoyment flow
When brothers love, but if their hate succeeds,
They wage the war, but 'tis the father bleeds. —Young.

Who have not saved some trifling thing
More prized than jewels rare,
A faded flower, a broken ring,
A tress of golden hair.
—Ellen Howarth.

How often a new affection makes a new man? The sordid, cowering soul turns heroic. The frivolous girl becomes the steadfast martyr of patience and ministration, transfigured by deathless love. The career of bounding impulse turns into the anthem of sacred deeds.—Chapin.

How sacred, how beautiful, is the feeling of affection in pure guileless bosoms! The proud may sneer at it, the fashionable may call it fable, the selfish and dissipated may affect to despise it; but the holy passion is surely of heaven, and is made evil by the corruptions of those whom it was sent to bless and to preserve.—Mordaunt.

A solitary blessing few can find,
Our joys with those we love are intertwined,
And he whose wakeful tenderness removes
The obstructing throne wounds the breast he loves,
Smooths not another's rugged path alone
But scatters roses to adorn his own.

Let the foundation of thy affection be virtue, then make the building as rich as thou canst if the foundation be beauty or wealth, and the building virtue, the foundation is too weak for the building, and it will fall; happy is he, the palace of whose affection is founded upon virtue, walled with riches, glazed with beauty, and roofed with honor.
—Quarles.

Talk not of wasted affection, affection never was wasted;
If it enrich not the heart of another, its waters returning
Back to their spring, like the rain, shall fill them with refreshment;
That which the fountain sends forth returns again to the fountain.
—Longfellow.

Why doth fate, that often bestows thousands of souls on a conquerer or tyrant, to be the sport of his passions, so often deny to the tenderest and most feeling hearts one kindred one on which to lavish their affections? Why is it that love must so often sigh in vain for an obejct, and Hate never?—Richter.

Elizabeth had been given some colored candy Easter eggs and naturally wanted to eat them.

"No," said mamma, "they are not to be eaten; only to play with." Elizabeth, being a well trained child, believed her mother literally.

After playing happily some time she came in, her face radiant. "Oh, mamma! They are to eat. I felt them with my tongue."

"You say you are in love with Miss Baggs?"

"I'm sure I am."

"But I can't see anything attractive about her."

"Neither can I see it. But it's in the bank, all right."

Too often beauty is either so vain or so insolvent that it is disgusting.

COTTON MILL SALE AND CONSOLIDATION OCCURS AT RANDLEMAN

Special to Telegram.

Asheboro, June 15.—The funeral of N. J. Page, who died suddenly at Starr yesterday, while there on a visit, was largely attended. The services were conducted by Revs. T. M. Johnson and C. A. Wood, of the Asheboro M. E. church.

The deceased was one of Randleman's most prominent citizens.

Mr. Page had been ill for several months of Angina Pectoris.

While the date for the Home coming week and Agricultural Fair has not been definitely fixed it is very generally accepted that it will be held at Asheboro sometime in November. The details are being arranged and it will be a great industrial and agricultural exhibit. The Ladies' Auxiliary and Poultry exhibits will be among the important features.

During the past week the real estate market has shown some activity. John Hammer sold the residences of Mr. Amman and W. F. Redding on Sunset avenue.

Among the new homes being erected are those of Amos Winningham on South street; Robert Burns, C. C. Miller and C. E. Davis, on Oak avenue.

H. H. Green, who recently came to Asheboro from Smith county, Va., and located on the tract of land belonging to the Asheboro Mining Company has engaged in the growing of truck which is proving profitable in connection with his other duties as manager of the mining company.

The cotton mills known as the Randleman mills, Plaidville and Marie Antionette, belonging to the Randleman Manufacturing Company and the mill incorporated under the name of Naomi Falls Manufacturing Company, have all been sold in the bankruptcy preceding and purchased by J. C. Watkins, of Greensboro, and H. G. Chatham, of Elkin, and J. E. Gilmer, of Winston-Salem, who have incorporated the property so acquired under the name of the Deep River Mills.

The future plans of the new owners of these mills are not known but it has been definitely stated that additions will be made to the machinery and the output greatly increased.

A LEADING CALIFORNIA DRUGGIST

Pasadena, Cal., March 9, 1911.

Foley and Co., Gentlemen:—We have sold and recommended Foley's Honey and Tar Compound for years. We believe it to be one of the most efficient expectorants on the market. Containing no opiates or narcotics it can be given freely to children. Enough of the remedy can be taken to relieve a cold, as it has no nauseating results, and does not interfere with digestion. Yours very truly, C. H. Ward Drug Co., C. L. Parsons, Sec'y and Treas." Get the original Foley's Honey and Tar Compound in the yellow package. For sale by Howard Gardner.

"Why do artist always sign their pictures?"

"It's an greement they have so that nobody will be able to blame one on someone else."

Work Will Soon Start

after you take Dr King's New Life Pills, and you'll quickly enjoy their fine results. Constipation and indigestion vanish and fine appetite returns. They regulate stomach, liver and bowels and impart new strength and energy to the whole system. Try them. Only 25c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

Many a father is willing to let his daughter marry the man of her choice without a murmur because she has the piano habit.

A Charming Woman

is one who is lovely in face, form, mind and temper. But its hard for a woman to be charming without health. A weak, sickly woman will be nervous and irritable. Constipation and kidney poisons show in pimples, blotches, skin eruptions and a wretched complexion. But Electric Bitters always proves a godsend to women who want health, beauty and friends. They regulate Stomach, Liver and Kidneys, purify the blood; give strong nerves, bright eyes, pure breath, smooth, velvety skin, lovely complexion and perfect health. Try them. 50c. at Fariss-Klutz Drug Co.

"His wife is a woman of one idea."

"That so?"

"Yes . Whenever he starts to do anything she has the idea that he's doing it wrong"—Detroit Free Press.

YOUR NEIGHBOR'S EXPERIENCE

How you may profit by it. Take Foley Kidney Pills. Mrs. Mrs. E. G. Whiting, 360 Willow St., Akron, O., says: "For some time I had a very serious case of kidney trouble and I suffered with backaches and dizzy headaches. I had specks floating before my eyes and I felt all tired out and miserable. I saw Foley Kidney Pills advertised and got a bottle and took them according to directions and results showed almost at once. The pain and dizzy headaches left me, my eye-sight became clear and today I can say I am a well woman, thanks to Foley Kidney Pills." For sale by Howard Gardner.

He—A handsome woman smiled at me yesterday.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is Catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of testimonials.

WASHING WITHOUT WATER
is Like Trying to Get Rid of Dandruff Without Herpicide.
Did you ever see any one trying to wash themselves without soap or water?
If you did what would you say of him?
It is every bit as foolish to try to get rid of Dandruff and to prevent Baldness by feeding the germs which cause it, with Canthrarides, Vaseline, Glycerine and similar substances which form the principal ingredients of most so-called Hair Vigors.
Newbro's Herpicide is successful because it attacks and kills the parasitic germ which feeds on the hair roots.
It is the original and only genuine scalp germicide manufactured.
Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c. in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co. Detroit, Mich.

If She Winked.

"Set down! Set down!" said a cross crabbid old man as two saucy little urchins stood up in front of him at an entertainment, "I can't see er wink."

"Aw, go on!" cried one of them. "If she winks we'll tell you," and remained where they stood the rest of the evening.

"You surely don't give your husband a tie every birthday?"

"Yes, I do, and the poor dear never realizes that it is the same one every time."—Short Stories.

The Downfall of Samaria. 2 Kings xvii:1-18.

Golden Text—He, that being often reproved hardeneth his neck, shall suddenly be destroyed, and that without remedy. Prov. xxix:1.

(1.) Verses 1-6—Who was the last king that reigned over the kingdom of Israel?

(2.) What was the character of Hoshea?

(3.) Who did Hoshea succeed as king, and how did he come to the throne? (2 Kings xv:30.)

(4.) What became of Hoshea?(v:4.)

(5.) By whom was Samaria taken and the kingdom of Israel blotted out?

(6.) Verses 7-8—What was the real first cause of the blotting out of the kingdom of the ten tribes? (v:20.)

(7.) What were the secondary causes of the overthrow of the ten tribes?

(8.) How much has God to do direct, with our national prosperity or with our national suffering?

(9.) When we suffer from epidemic disease that we can trace to bad sanitation, or to any other cause over which we have control, why is it either right or wrong to say that God inflicted the suffering?

(10.) How much has God got to do with the sinking of a ship, that was allowed to leave port in an unseaworthy condition?

(11.) What were the general habits of "the heathen" that Israel had imitated?

(12.) Verses 9-12—What specified sins is Israel here accused of, and what relation did they have to the blotting out of the nation?

(13.) Is a "secret" sin as certain to work evil results as one committed in the open?

(14.) In what way do religious sins, such as idolatry, have an evil material effect upon the individual and the nation?

(15.) Verse 13—In how many ways had God "testified" or warned them of the evil results that would follow their sin?

(16.) How does God warn us of the evil consequences of sin?

(17.) How may we learn of the sad and certain results of sin, short of actual experience?

(18.) Verses 14-15—What reason is there to think that they persisted in sin, after knowing the punishment that would surely follow?

(19.) How is it that individuals and communities to-day, persist in doing those things which they know will be disastrous?

(20.) What would you say to the proposition that sin first produces partial insanity, and then its victims keep on in sin knowing, but not realizing, its awful consequences?

(21.) What steps would you take to arouse sinners to the realization of the awful consequences of sin?

(22.) Is it possible to have sinners for boon companions, and to be Christians ourselves?

(23.) Verses 16-18.—What if any are the exceptions to the rule, that sinners get worse and worse?

(24.) When sinners train their children to do what they know will result in injury how do you explain it? (This is one of the questions which may be answered in writing by members of the club.)

SUGGESTIVE QUESTIONS ON THE SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON. THE CONTEST.

The most popular and the most practical plan for Bible study, together with a prize Bible contest, commences in the present issue of The Telegram. For the past thirteen weeks we have been explaining the importance of this course of Bible study, and the conditions of the contest, and urging all our readers to join our Local Club. If there are any who do not understand fully about the contest, and the prizes, call at this office and it will be fully explained. In short, the Sunday School lesson must be read each week for 52 weeks, also the "Suggestive Questions," and the coupon should be cut out each week and signed, certifying that this has been done. Then any five of the questions that are indicated to be answered in writing must also be answered, and at the end of the term the coupons and written answers, duly signed with name and address, must be delivered to this office. The prizes will be awarded according to the number of coupons sent in, and the merits of the written answer. You can get all the help you want with the written answers.

Go in to win one of the solid gold medals. If you complete the course you will get a beautifully-engraved Diploma in three colors in any event. Get all you can to join you in this course of Bible study.

JUDGE WAS FULL OF HUMOR

He Slips One Over on Prisoner Who Pretended to Be Deaf When Questions Were Asked.

The city magistrates of New York are human beings, not mere codifications of the common law, and many a story of decidedly human interest, comic or pathetic, comes out of the justice courts of the metropolis. This is one of the former:

A prisoner was arraigned before Magistrate Freschi recently on a charge of assault and battery.

"What have you got to say for yourself?" asked the magistrate.

"Hey? What's that?" asked the prisoner, his hand curved suggestively behind his ear.

"What's your name?" shouted the magistrate.

"Hey?"

"What's your name, and where do you live?" roared the judge.

"Sorry. Can't hear a word," declared the prisoner.

At this a police officer, who used to sell early vegetables from a cart before he joined the force, stepped up and put his penetrating voice at the court's service. Through him the name and address of the accused were learned.

Then the magistrate wanted to know his occupation.

"Hey?" asked the prisoner.

The policeman came gallantly to the rescue, and the prisoner said he was a professional song writer.

"Well," said the magistrate, heaving the sigh of laborious duty performed, "I'll give you a title for a new song. It is: 'You may be Deaf Tonight, but Your Hearing comes Tomorrow!'"

And the prisoner, who had not heard a word, bowed gratefully.—Youth's Companion.

Miss A.— So your husband keeps you continually in hot water. You poor man!

Mr. B.—Oh, that's all right. We husbands are like eggs; keep us in hot water and we become hardened.—Boston Transcript.

DID NOT KNOW HIS VOICE

New Clerk Was Snubbed When He Took Robert Edeson's Order for Oats.

Robert Edeson, who lives out at his place on the north shore of Long Island pretty nearly all the time he is not touring the country, does practically all the buying for his stable as well as his house.

In fact, he telephones orders so frequently to the grain and feed store for supplies that all of the clerks know the sound of his voice and hasten to fill the orders without asking who it is that is talking. A new clerk some time ago, however, quite upset the usual order of things and was nearly upset himself in consequence.

It chanced that oats were needed in the stable, and Mr. Edeson, after his usual fashion, called up the feed store and without waiting to give his name said:

"Send me over ten bushels of oats this afternoon, please," and then started to ring off.

Suddenly he heard a voice at the other end of the line.

"Who for?" said the voice.

"The motor boat, of course," snapped back Edeson.

The oats arrived all right, but not until the clerk had enlisted the aid of the telephone girl and traced the call.

HE HADN'T BEEN SWIMMING

Technically, Little Waldo Told His Mother the Truth, for He Couldn't Swim.

These lovely days usher in the season when such conversations as the following are to be heard in every other household:

"Waldo, have you been in swimming"

"No, ma'am."

"Waldo, I told you that the water wasn't warm enough, and you promised me that you wouldn't go. But your face is cleaner than I ever saw it. Waldo, even your ears are clean. Have you been in swimming?"

"No, ma'am."

"Waldo, your stockings are on wrong-side-out and you seem to have lost your undershirt. Your shirt clings to your body. Dear, you have never told mamma a falsehood, and it would break her heart if you were to begin now. I ask you again—have you been swimming?"

"No, ma'am!"

And the little hero always tells the truth. He may have jumped off the dock into shallow water a few times, and he may have paddled around in the breakers all the afternoon, but he hasn't been swimming. For it is common knowledge among the fellows that Waldo can't swim a stroke.—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

Establishing a Reputation.

"If I knew how to go about it, I would have every dog in my store tried before a judge and jury for assault and battery," said the animal dealer. "Unless he was convicted and executed I could get about three prices for him.

"Every time a dog is haled to court on the charge of having bitten somebody I attend the trial and take part in the reception the beast holds after his acquittal. A dog that has enough class about him to precipitate a lawsuit couldn't be bought for love or money, but if his master wished to sell him he could do so a dozen times over before leaving the courtroom.

"Even if it has been proved that the dog does show his teeth once in a while there are people willing to take chances just for the sake of owning a dog that has so much character. Selling dogs being in my line, I have studied up a good many ways to advertise, but trial by jury is the best way so far discovered."

Long School Hours.

The Austrian minister has issued a decree denouncing the long hours enforced in the schools of the empire, amounting in some cases to 45 a week. This would have seemed a very mild regime to some old time pedagogues. In Scotland, up to the middle of the eighteenth century usual school hours were from 6 a. m. till 6 p. m., with two breaks of an hour each. Some schools opened an hour earlier and worked so long as daylight lasted. No alteration in the hours was made on Saturday, and even on Sunday a certain amount of work was done. The holidays were restricted to a day at Candlemass and at Whitsun and a fortnight in the autumn.

Strict Sabbath Observance.

A story of strict Sabbatarianism is told by one of the old chroniclers in a life of Richard de Clare, earl of Gloucester. One Saturday in 1260 a Jew of Tewkesbury fell into a well on the earl's estates; and out of reverence for the day (the Jewish Sabbath) would not allow himself to be drawn out.

The earl proved equally punctilious, and on the next day (the Christian Sunday) would not allow his servants to labor in rescuing the Jew. On Monday morning they found him dead.

Wasted Pity.

"How sad it is to see those human derelicts sitting on the benches of a city park."

"Don't offer them your sympathy until you are sure they need it."

"Why not?"

"I once condoned with an old chap I thought was a human derelict and found out later he was worth $3,000,000."

SCHEME AGENTS BARED

Distances in the Residence Suburbs Are Double What Realty Men Give Them.

"I have often wondered how the tables of distances in the far, far suburbs of New York were obtained," a seeker after a suburban home said. "I mean those distances which seem so short when mentioned in an offhand manner or when expressed in time, but which are so long when put to practical test. The puzzle was not solved by my last experience in this line; it was rather made more complex.

"I went to look last Sunday at some lots which were said to lie along the line of one of the suburban railroads. The agent who accompanied me said that the site was 'not more than a mile from the station.' When we reached the station a motor car was waiting to take us out to the place.

"Now, you know how quickly and easily a mile slips past one of those big cars. Well, I noticed a speedometer on the car and instead of climbing into the tonneau with the agent I got in beside the chauffeur and kept my eye on the dial. The car went out to those lots at the rate of 20 miles an hour, and it took six minutes to make the trip. That would make the distance from the station about two miles, or twice what the agent said it was.

"He couldn't explain the inconsistency when asked about it, and so I am just as far from solving the wherefore of suburban distances now as before."—New York Sun.

Get the Last Laugh at Least.

The frequent and unsuccessful candidacy of certain men in this town for public office reminded George (Scotty) Dore of a story of his old friend Hogan.

"Hogan was raffling a clock," said Mr. Dore. "He was fairly successful in disposing of tickets in the shop where he worked, but he ran up against trouble when he canvassed his neighbors.

"Dropping in at a neighbor's house he tried to sell a ticket on the clock.

"'It's a fine timepiece and it'll luk foine on yer what not er mentel,' says Hogan cajolingly.

"'Gwan, the old clock doesn't run,' replied the neighbor.

"'Well,' drawled Hogan, changing front completely, 'well, perhaps yes won't win it, and then ye'll have the laugh on the fellow who does.'"—Milwaukee Press.

"He is what you might call an adroit man?"

"Decidedly—his sins never find him out and his debts never find him in."—Puck.

BATTLE BETWEEN TWO WINES

Rivalry of Champagne and Burgundy Lasted for Nearly Three-Quarters of a Century.

The quarrel between the districts of the Aube and the Marne recalls the still more ancient rivalry of the sparkling wine and burgundy. The battle between these two wines lasted from 1650 to 1720, nearly three-quarters of a century, and was started by an obscure doctor, who wrote a pamphlet declaring that the vineyards of the Beaune produced the healthiest wines in France. All the other vineyards of France were aroused to indignant protests by this treatise and the vine growers of the Champagne were loudest in their protests. The quarrel reached its height when Fagon, the physician of Louis XIV., forbade his royal master to drink champagne, and Burgundy rejoiced at this check to its rival.

A Burgundian pamphlet was promptly issued denouncing sparkling wines as the cause of gout and bad nerves. Reims promptly rejoined by a medical treatise which set out to prove that Beaune was the real cause of these evils. Journalists, poets, statesmen, in fact all the world, took part in the quarrel. The pamphleteers of Reims claimed the victory, for they declared that champagne had done far more for the country than any other wine, because when King Wenceslas came to Reims in 1397 to make a treaty with Charles VI., he found the wine so good that he continued to drink it until he granted to the French king all that he demanded.—Westminster Gazette.

The Dog's Mind.

I have a Skye terrier possessing what seems to me at least to be an extraordinary knowledge of time. On each day of the week, excepting Saturday, some scholars pass along a road at the back of my grounds, about 4 p. m., on their way home—about a mile distant. If the dog is out of doors he invariably joins them, accompanies them home, and returns. If he should happen to be indoors at the hour they pass, he sits at a window watching for them; and when they appear, he asks plainly and palpably to be let out. On Saturday, however, when the school is shut, as soon as the doors of my house are opened in the morning, he makes off for the children's cottage, and spends the week end with them, returning to me on Monday. And so it goes on for weeks.—The Scotsman.

ODD NEW ZEALAND LIZARD.

Tuatara Originally Had Four Eyes, but Has Lost Two in Course of Ages.

The tuatara lizard, found in New Zealand, is one of the most ancient forms of animal life now found on earth. Originally this lizard possessed four eyes, but in the course of ages it has lost one pair. The tuatara lay eggs which are remarkable in that they require fourteen months to hatch, the embryo passing the winter in a state of hibernation.

The small survivors of past ages are found only in a few localities and are becoming very scarce, collectors from every part of the world being continually on their trail. They are about two feet in length and, in common with other lizards, have the fortunate characteristic of being able to replace portions of their limbs or tails which have been destroyed. It is asserted that one of these lizards, owned by a naturalist, had the misfortune some time ago to lose an eye, and that a complete new eye, perfect in every way, has grown in the place of the old one.—Montreal Standard.

The Sunny Side.

Since there is a sunny side of life as well as a seamy, why not hunt it out? Do not be one of the mopers—by disposition or pose; force yourself to smile and laugh, no matter what goes wrong. It may be a sickly smile at first, the kind that is near kin to tears, but the effort is well worth making. Keep it up and the habit of sunniness is yours.

And what a blessed habit it is!

None knows how blessed as well as she who is forced to live with the shade-keeper, whose gloom, if not contagious, is irritating.

Cultivate the spirit of joyousness. Life will be less of a bore and a burden. Sadness, if it cannot be escaped, at least will not permanently darken one's days with regret and discontent.

"Walk on the sunny side, do not keep in the shade." There is nothing equal to that as a trouble easer, a life sweetener.

The Oriental Way.

In China when the subscriber rings up exchange the operator may be expected to ask:

"What number does the honorable son of the moon and stars desire?"

"Hohi, two-three."

Silence. Then the exchange resumes.

"Will the honorable person graciously forgive the inadequacy of the insignificant service and permit this humbled slave of the wire to inform him that the never-to-be-sufficiently-censured line is busy?"

AGE AND YOUTH COMPARED

Not Added Years, but Inability to Keep Abreast of Times Makes Man Old.

Some men age more rapidly than others, of course, and one reason for this is to be found in the nature of the individual man. To those who, from youth, have kept a firm hold upon themselves and their actions, who have seen to it that the fires of life have not consumed all of their reserve force and energy, and who have carefully stored their vitality, the increasing years make but little difference except to widen their sphere of usefulness and brighten their outlook. It is not so much the years that age a man as it is his inability to keep abreast of the times. The young man has the advantage of that hopefulness and enthusiasm and self-confidence which always burn vigorously in the hearts of those before whom the future stretches out its long and untried road. Fresh, aggressive and exuberant, he rushes forth to conquer the world of which he has dreamed. The very enthusiasm of his nature stands him in good stead and helps him far on the way he chooses to follow, but for all the advantage of his youth and strength and ability he lacks the one thing which his older brother possesses—experience, the greatest of all teachers, the hardest of all masters, the surest of all guides. In that one respect, at least, the man of years outclasses his youthful competitor. Mature judgment and impartial reasoning can only be obtained after varied experiences, and it is only in rare cases that we hear of young men possessing certain faculties that will parallel those that belong naturally to a later period of life.—Charleston News and Courier.

"Don't be afraid of the bacon, Mr. Jenkins," said the landlady to the new lodger.

"Not at all, madam. I've seen a piece twice as large and it did not frighten me a bit."

NOT THE FOLKS UPSTAIRS

What It Really Was That Woke Mr. Flatdweller Up at Five in the Morning.

"The folks upstairs are pretty noisy," said Mr. Flatdweller, "and they stay up late, but they are not early risers; they let us sleep in the morning, and so we were surprised and shocked on this particular morning when we heard them pounding around up there at a great rate at 5 a. m.

"They seemed to be all up and all at work, moving all the beds and bureaus and trunks, shifting them around and dragging and pushing them and letting them all slam down, sometimes in succession and sometimes all at once.

"What in Sam Hill do you suppose they could be up to there at this hour? Were they going to move and getting an early start? Or what was the matter with them? And then they were all quiet for about half a minute and then—slam bang, rattlety whoop! Bing, boong! Who-oo-oo, bang, bang, bang, boo-oong! Boonglety boong! Boong! Boong!

"And then we woke up. It wasn't the folks upstairs; it was a thunderstorm coming up, so then we smiled and turned over and went to sleep again, thinking for the umpty-steenth time as we dropped off that it never pays to jump at conclusions."

PROPER JEWELS FOR GIRLS

Pearls the Best They Can Wear, and Turquoises Also Are Appropriate.

Pearls are girl jewels par excellence and a necklace of pearls is a frequent gift for a first ball, while a pearl cross has been supposed to be a protection from evil. A modern Indian novelist mentions the nine rows of pearls worn by a Hindu maiden, and the same jewel is worn by brides alike in the west and the east.

In the olden times the daughters of Hindu rajahs are said to have signified their choice of a husband by throwing round the neck of the chosen lover a chain of pearls and of flowers. At a recent high caste Indian wedding, when the rite of the "Sehra bande" or "Tying of the Veil" was observed, the Sareb or veil consisted of "strings of pearls" edged with a ruby fringe.

Turquoises are also jewels for girls. The forget me not azure of the stones is the symbolic color of youth and hope. They are beautiful surrounded by diamonds and there is a pretty old saying that the wearer of a turquoise will never lack friends. Delicate colored gems such as peridots and tourmalines, chrysophrase and cornelian are also much in favor with the younger set of women.—Lady's Pictorial.

Swimming Ghosts.

Lecturing before the Camera club of London, England, Dr. Francis Ward said that in an attempt to photograph fish in their natural surroundings, he had constructed a pond with an observation chamber let in at the side, below the surface of the water. Through the window of this chamber unseen by the fish he could watch and photograph their movements. He discovered by this means that the protection of fish when in their natural state is much more thorough than is generally supposed.

All silvery fish were in reality merely mirrors in the water, reflecting the tone and color of their surroundings so as to appear to their fellow fish gray, unsubstantial, swimming ghosts, hardly to be distinguished at all. It was only when the dace, for example, rose to the surface, causing its body to reflect light, that the pike at the bottom of the pond could see and go for its little victim.

Hume's Temporary Orthodoxy.

It is not chiefly as skeptic that most of us come to commemorate David Hume. But the story of his very temporary orthodoxy is worth recalling. Having fallen into a swamp at the back of Edinburgh castle, he called for assistance to a woman who was passing.

At first she took no notice, bpt presently she asked, "Are na ye Hume the atheist?" "Weel, weel, no matter," said Hume, "Christian charity commands you to do good to everyone."

"Christian charity here or Christian charity there," said the woman, "I'll do naething for you till ye turn a Christian yourself—ye maun repeat the Lord's Prayer and the Creed, or faith I'll let ye grafel (grovel) there as I found ye."

And he had to repeat them.

A Fountain Marvel.

One of the natural marvels of France is the fountain or source of the Coulomp, a small river in the department of the Basses-Alpes. Out of a mighty limestone wall about 4,600 feet high springs a fountain of water, yielding even in the dryest times about 300 gallons a second, and forming a full born river, which begins its career with a series of leaps aggregating 100 feet of descent. It is thought that the water must pass under the mountain by subterranean channels at least a mile in length.

Made a Practice of It.

"Mrs. Upperten says I may present you. You are fortunate. She does not care to meet many strangers."

"Oh, she always allows me to be presented. I have been introduced to her a great many times."—Washington Herald.

COTTON LETTER TO J. E. LATHAM.

New Orleans, La., June 15.—Newspapers this morning reported heavy rains in Texas and Oklahoma where official government report shows rainfall of only one-tenth of an inch at Fort Worth, Texas, and this the only one of the forty stations on the government map. While detailed reports published at 10 o'clock will show more rain fall over night it is certain that the newspaper reports were exaggerated and that there was no general rain in the belt such as is needed. Temperatures in Texas, Arkansas and Louisiana were very high. The map indicates cloudy, possibly unsettled weather; some precipitation for the northwestern quarter of the belt; generally part cloudy to fair elsewhere. No general rain.

The pronounced weakness again in July in New York also invited bear pressure on new crops, as the trade think July will pull the whole list further down. The summer positions in New York broke around 30 points and October here dropped to 13.25. Liverpool declined about five on old crops but showed increased sales, 7,000 at 7 points lower. New crops in the English market lost as much as 8 1-2 points. Some points in North Texas reported threatening and showers this morning, which helped along the prevailing spirit. The market is unsettled and nervous, largely on account of the weakness in the Summer positions in New York.

ART OF SMILING IMPORTANT

People Do Not Care to Associate With an Animated Vinegar Cruet, Says Writer.

Why is it that most people, as they walk along the streets or ride in the cars have such an unpleasant expression? If one will observe even casually the people he meets in a day he will be impressed with the pained and sullen and disagreeable countenances. We live in a rush, and the average person is bent on some errand or business and is absorbed in that; we are all rushing to get something or somewhere. With this absorbing our attention we haven't time to attend to our facial expression. We are not sure, however, that this is a matter of permissible indifference. If one does not believe that his countenance adds to or detracts anything from the lives or expressions of others, let him pause for a moment before that now celebrated "Billiken." It is almost impossible to look at the little imp and not smile. The Japanese teach their maids in the hotels and those also in the higher walks of life the art of smiling. They are compelled to practice before a mirror. One cannot stay long in Japan without being inoculated with the disposition to "look plersant." The "look pleasant, please," of the photographer goes deeper than the photograph plate.

No one wants to associate long with an animated vinegar cruet. A disposition is easily guessed from the angle of the corners of the mouth; a disposition is molded by compelling those angles to turn up or down. If a merry heart maketh a glad countenance it is also true that a glad countenance makes a merry heart—in the one who has it and in the one who beholds. "Iron sharpeneth iron. So a bad man sharpeneth the countenance of his friend."—Baptist Commonwealth.

Value of Fads.

Whatever our occupation, or profession in life may be, it is most desirable to create for ourselves some other special interest. In the choice of a subject anyone should consult his own instincts and interests. I will not attempt to suggest whether it is better to pursue art or science; whether we should study the motes in the sunbeam, or the heavenly bodies themselves. Whatever may be the subject of our choice, we shall find enough, and more than enough, to repay the devotion of a lifetime. Life no doubt is paved with enjoyments, but we must all expect times of anxiety, of suffering and of sorrow; and when these come it is an inestimable comfort to have some deep interest which will, at any rate to some extent, enable us to escape from ourselves.—Sir John Lubbock.

HER REASON FOR WEEPING

Mrs. Ackroyd's Explanation Also Gives Her Husband Occasion for Some Sober Thinking.

Just when Mrs. Ackroyd had finished packing her trunks and after William had bought railway tickets for her and their two daughters little Bessie came down with a severe case of whooping cough. The doctor positively refused to let the child start on a long journey, and even if he had thought it safe for the little one to leave home he assured Mrs. Ackroyd that she would not be permitted to take the patient into a hotel anywhere.

"Isn't it a shame!" the distressed lady wailed. "Here we are with everything in our trunks and my husband has even bought our berths in the sleeper."

"It is unfortunate, but I don't know what you can do except sit down and wait for four or five days. It may be safe for you then to start away."

When her husband got home that evening Mrs. Ackroyd was weeping.

"Don't take it so hard, dear," he said. "It might be a good deal worse. Our little one is likely to get along all right. The doctor says the case isn't an unusually severe one, and when I telephoned him this afternoon he said he thought it might be safe for you to start away by the end of the week."

"I know. He told me the same thing. But I feel that we'll never go. I never postponed anything yet that didn't turn out sadly. I once postponed a wedding and the marriage never took place."

Half an hour later William Ackroyd was still sitting in a corner, thinking it over.

Too Much for the Clairvoyant.

"You claim to be a great clairvoyant," began the client who had been shown into the rooms of Mme. La Faque. "I am told that you can read the past, present and future. Nothing is hidden from you."

"It is true," answered the famous medium. "For $2 I will tell you—"

"I will give you $10 if you will put me wise to one problem," interrupted the client impatiently. "What was it that my wife told me to bring home for dinner tonight?"

The money was refunded, but not cheerfully, as the advertisements promised.

Kind of Policeman He Didn't Know.

"You didn't pay the slightest attention to the policeman who warned you about the lights on your automobile!" said the magistrate, severely.

"I am at fault, judge," replied Mr. Chuggins. "I'm a stranger in the city, and he spoke so politely I didn't think he could be a real policeman."

C. A. Hines Made Editorial Secretary

Prof. W. A. Harper, who was recently elected president of Elon College, has resigned as Editorial and Corresponding Secretary of the Young People's Convention of the Southern Christian Convention. Charles A. Hines, of Greensboro, has been chosen by the Executive Committee to fill the vacancy.

Funeral of Mrs. Kennedy.

The funeral of Mrs. Cecilia M. Kennedy will be held today from St. Benedict's Catholic church, at 9:30 o'clock. Father Vincent Taylor will conduct the funeral services, and interment will be made in Green Hill cemetery. Messrs. E. J. LaForte, C. D. Higgins, W. H. McCormick, W. A. Sweeney, H. J. McGuigan and Capt. W. S. Witherspoon will serve as pallbearers.

In Municipal Court.

The docket in Municipal court yesterday was indeed a small affair, for only two unimportant cases were on trial. Dr. Dellinger was arraigned on the charge of reckless driving. The case was dismissed. Frank Tisdale was convicted on the charge of an assault upon an Italian and was fined $7.50 and the costs.

Yesterday in Superior Court

Superior Court yesterday morning was occupied by the divorce case of two negroes, Nannie Wharton vs. James Wharton. The charge of infidelity was proved and divorce granted to the prosecuting wife.

The last jury case of the present term of court began in the afternoon. John A. Young vs. the Southern Railway, suing for $800 damages on account of a delay in transit that destroyed a number of fine fruit trees, is the case that is expected to be a hard fought legal battle and occupy the attention of the court for two days.

A Fishing Party.

Misses Estelle Hinshaw, of Winston-Salem, and Esther Tarkington, of Roskingham, who are visiting Miss Eva Aiken on North Cedar street, were entertained yesterday by their hostess by a fishing party to Buchanan's on South Buffalo. Nine other young ladies accompanied the hostess and her guests on the outing. The party was chaperoned by Mrs. D. R. Aiken.

Real Estate Deals.

The following transfers of property have been recorded in the office of the register of deeds:

J. C. Lockamy to A. F. Phibbs, eleven acres east of town.

C. D. Benbow to Cornelia E. Craig, a house and lot on Gorrell street.

Otis Gurley to E. T. Corbett at lot in High Point.

J. R. Hughes to J. R. Hutton, lot on Mendenhall street.

Interest Increases in First Presbyterian Revival

The revial at the First Presbyterian church is growing in interest, large congregations being presnt at each service. The attendance at the morning services is especialy gratifying and the workers are greatly encouraged at the interest taken. Services this morning at 8 oclock and this evening at 8 o'clock. Public cordially invited.

Mrs. Rankin's Funeral.

The funeral of Mrs. William C. Rankin was conducted yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock by Rev. J. W. Goodman. The services were held in the Buffalo Presbyterian church, of which the deceased was long faithful and respected member. The body was laid to rest in the graveyard adjoining the church.

World's Copyright Laws.

A writer in the London Chronicle, discussing copyright laws, says that Mexico, Venezuela and Guatemala are the only countries where authors enjoy the privilege of perpetual copyright. This is worth something in Mexico, where there is a fairly large reading public, but is of little or no value in the other two countries. Spain is the most generous of European countries toward its authors. Copyright there lasts for 80 years after the author's death. In France the term is 50 years, and in Germany, where no copyright law existed until 1870, it is 30 years. "In the United States," adds the Chronicle, "copyright lasts for 28 years after publication, and this is extended to 42 years if the author or his widow or children are alive at the expiration of the term. And that is the country of pensions!"

Women and Society

Entertains Classmates.

Miss Griffin, of Black Mountain, is entertaining a large house party composed of her classmates of the State Normal College at Greensboro. Quite a number of dances and informal entertainments will be given in honor of Miss Griffin's guests during their stay at Black Mountain.—Asheville Citizen.

Baker-Simpson Wedding at Summerfield.

Mrs. J. T. Simpson, Miss Kathleen Simpson and Messrs. Eugene and Howard Simpson went to Summerfield yesterday afternoon in an automobile to attend the marriage of Miss Della Simpson to Mr. Brown Baker which was celebrated at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. T. H. Simpson, at 5 o'clock.—Winston-Salem Journal, June 15th.

Virginia Couple Eloped to Greensboro.

Two eloping lovers, Miss Ora A. Bellew and Homer A. Wood, of Albemarle, Va., applied early yesterday morning at the office of register of deeds for a marriage license. They were fleeing from parental objection and about 8 o'clock were united in marriage in the office by Elder O. J. Denny. They left on the northbound train to seek the blessings and forgiveness of their families.

Mrs. W. O. White was operated on for appendicitis yesterday at St. Leo's Hospital, and was reported last night as recovering nicely from the effects of the operation.

Mrs. John M. Rankin is suffering from an attack of malarial fever at her home on Ashe street.

Memorial Service of The Order of Railway Conductors

The annual memorial service of the Order of Railway Conductors will be held in West Market Street Methodist church Sunday morning, June 18 at 11 o'clock. Rev. E. K. McLarty will conduct the service.

The members of the B. R. T., B. L. E., and B. L. F. & E., and all visting members of the orders are cordially invited to attend the service.

The members will meet at the passenger station promptly at 10:30 o'clock and proceed in a body to the church.

Mule Killed By Train.

A stray mule walked upon the railroad track at Pomona yesterday and refused to move until compelled to do so by the fast passenger engine of No. 36, which sent it 500 yards. Some small portions of the mule's anatomy were brought into the station on the pilot and served to stir up considerable talk concerning the victim. However, it is thought that no great loss is felt at the mule's departure for he was evidently roaming at will and no one has as yet claimed damages from the railroad.

In engaging the services of Mrs. Whitted for a series of cooking lectures, it is the expressed wish of the North Carolina Public Service Company that the ladies of Greensboro realize that it is for their benefit, and that Mrs. Whitted, when not giving public lectures, is at their disposal. The Company hopes that the ladies will take advantage of this opportunity to learn everything about the gas range and its convenient and economical manner of operation.

OFF TO HIS BARCALO Security CRIB

Mother knows he's just as safe there as though she were constantly watching over him. The sides slide up and down. With the sides at full height, Baby can't possibly fall out, nor crawl or climb out. And the rods are close together so baby can't wedge between them. Made of enamelled malleable iron. Can't break. In various styles.

For Baby's Comfort and Safety

BARCALO SECURITY CRIB

Let the baby sleep in security and the mother may sleep in peace Either side of the Barcalo Crib may be lowered so that the crib at night becomes practically a jart of the mother's bed.

The sides and ends of the crib are so high baby cannot climb over them; the rods are so close together baby's head cannot go between them; they have no sharp points or castings to cause injury.

Baby will learn to walk holding on to the strong upper bar.

UNITED STATES PER CAPITA WEALTH BELOW THAT OF ENGLAND AND FRANCE

Wealth of England Much Better Distributed Than That of This Country—Greatest Concentration of Wealth in World's History in United States.

(By PRESTON C. ADAMS.)
Special to Telegram.

New York, June 17.—There is a general sort of an idea that the United States is the richest of all countries. In the aggregate this is correct but when it comes to per capita of wealth we are a bad third. L' American Financier a French publication which is recognized as an authority on such matters has just issued figures on this subject which are interesting. These show that while the wealth of the United States in the aggregate is $125,000,000,000, as against $88,000,000,000 for Great Britain and $83,000,000,000 for France when the per capita of wealth is considered, however, France is easily in the lead with Great Britain a rather close second and the United States a poor third. The per capita of wealth for France is $2,070 for Great Britain $1,975 and for the United States $1,359.

It would be interesting to know how this wealth is distributed but unfortunately no such statistics are available. If they were it is not improbable that the showing for the United States would be even less favorable, for there is probly a greater concentration of wealth in this country than in any other in the world.

In a recent speech Lloyd George the British Chancellor of the exchequer made the statement that there were only about 10,000 or so men in Great Britain who would be liable for the surtax on incomes, having an income of $25,000 or more. It is probable that New York City alone would greatly exceed this total.

While fortunes are sometimes quickly made in American mines it is a melancholy fact that not every man who invests in mining stock quickly gets on Easy Street thereby.

One of the financial papers the other day had a rather grim jest on this point in its advertising columns in the shape of the following advertisement.

"Will Exchange—I have 5,000 shares of a once well known mining and leasing company. Will exchange same for one setting hen and thirteen fresh laid eggs, Leghorn preferred. Only permanent investors need apply.

"GET-RICH-QUICK."

Last July $205,000,000 was distributed in dividends and interest, and as an even larger sum will be paid out next month our principal underwriters and investment houses are making active preparations to attract the reinvestment of this money. The journal's records show that just over $1,000,000,000 new securities have been issued since January 1, yet investigation reveals that much new financing is contemplated.

The June offerings of new bonds and notes are likely to exced last month's total of $155,000,000. The response to recent applications for capital has in nearly every case been highly satisfactory both abroad and at home. The present is a peculiarly propitious moment for covering requirements; indeed it is questionable if conditions can long remain as favorable as they are now.

Money everywhere is abnormally cheap. In London discounts are only a shade above 2 percent, in Paris the quotation is 2 percent, in Berlin it is under 3 percent. in Amsterdam 2 3-4 percent. while in New York call money has been in superabundant supply at 2 1-4 and 2 1-2 per cent. time rates until a few days ago were on the basis of 2 1-2 percent for short maturities and 3 percent for six months, and commercial paper was very scarce at 3 1-2 percent

Our Clearing House banks have been carrying reserves far in excess of legal requirements, and the plethoric state of out-of-town markets has been reflected by receipts on balance from the interior to the extent of well above $100,000,000 since the opening of the year.

Nearly one billion new securities have been issued in the United States during the current year. The exact total, as compiled by the Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin, has been $992,320,950, an increase of $75,029,350 over last year. The railroad output reached the huge figure of $719,064,900, during the first five months of 1910, the increase having thus been $154,372,900. The industrial total of $273,256,050 shows a decrease of $79,343,550.

John D. Rockefeller, Jr., has a great distaste for business affairs, and it is said that his father has almost despaired of making a great financier of him, notwithstanding his generally admitted capabilities. His interest in the welfare of the employees of the great trust his father has established has, however, made him the most popular of the sons of the multi-millionaires who make their headquarters at 26 Broadway. Many stories illustrating his human side are told. Among them is one that when his father first sent him to learn the business on the first rung of the ladder he was assigned as a clerk in the shipping department. One day the clerk, a Mr. Brown, who had the desk next to him, sent word that he had been taken sick. The next day young Rockefeller also sent an excuse. He was missing the next day and the next. Then the head of the department sent another clerk up to Brown's hall bedroom to inquire as to his condition. There he found John D. Rockefeller, Jr., sitting by the patient's bedside reading to him. The heir of the Rockefeller millions had employed a doctor and was not only paying all the bills of his fellow clerk, but was spending the greater part of each day ministering to his wants.

Were it possible at this time to obtain an accounting of stocks of commodities in the United States, the record would have an important bearing on expectations regarding the immediate business outlook of the country. Restriction of consumption and curtailment of demand have progressed for so long, yet in so irregular a manner, that it has become difficult to tell with any degree of accuracy just how, in this regard, the important industries stand.

Unlike the copper trade, the other big industries do not make public figures of surplus stocks.

In dry goods, production has been so adjusted to consumptive requirements that now it is acknowledged on every hand that the trade has rid itself of surplus stocks to such an extent that unsold supplies are the smallest in a number of years. As to the iron trade, estimates are difficult. Last December it was figured at Pittsburg that the country's unsold surplus of iron was 1,500,000 tons, which would have approximated the highest surplus ever experienced. The increased demand which arose temporarily in February and March must have absorbed part of this surplus. Whether they have increased again, in the subsequent slackening of business, is a matter of speculation.

SUGGESTIONS ABOUT THE BOY

Remember the Difference in Stages of Development and Do Not Force Him.

Study your boy; watch his development from early childhood; give him every opportunity to show what there is in him by furnishing plenty of wholesome work and strenuous play. Teach him to work persistently and with a purpose. Pay him reasonably for what he does and train him ho save. Put him through the grammar school by all means and the higher schools if you can. Allow for a period of indifference to the business of the world, and also expect him to show more or less variableness and turning aside in the choice of a vocation. Do not force or resist him to the point of straining the close tie of friendship and affection existing between him and yourself. Await with patience the awakening of his best vocational aspiration, indicating all the while your belief that such an event will certainly come to pass. And sometime may you have the exceeding great joy of knowing how much worth while it has all been!—The Delineator.

Emblements.

"Emblements" is a pretty, pastoral word reposing in the not-often poetic verbiage of the law. Old law writers, too, struck by its euphony, have given it attractive definition. "Emblements," they say, "are the products of the soil where art combines with nature." Strawberries, potatoes of one's garden, corn and wheat of one's field are emblements—though the fruit trees are not. The exception indicates that erudition and poesy are not always hand in hand, for the poetic definition is thus inexact.

What a melodious phrase for farming, agriculture, truck gardening this is—"where art combines with nature." How truly, too, it invests the best service of mankind with the dignity it merits. It is an art to make two blades of corn grow on the spot where only one grew before. What artist creates with fine greater genius than he who sculptures out of air and soil and his own fine frenzy a nobler berry, a more seducing peach, a better vegetable? Who has painted with worthier inspiration than he who has painted a new lily, a more delicate rose?—Kansas City Star.

False Teeth for Horse.

Dentistry for animals is now being practiced extensively. The latest story of successful treatment comes from Youngstown, Ohio, where a horse owned by Silas Simpson now rejoices in the possession of a full set of teeth. The animal has been in the Simpson family for years, and when its teeth became bad a veterinarian recommended having them taken out. This was done, and a set of artificial teeth made. They are removed and cleaned once a week. The horse eats its oats and food with the utmost ease, and willingly shows the false grinders to strangers.

The Retort Literary.

Manager—Say, you ought to know your lines in this musical comedy by this time. Why are you continually referring to the libretto?

Actor—You ought not to criticize my delivery of my part. I am speaking by the book.

Limited Vocabulary.

"Does Mrs. Pilcher talk interestingly of her travels abroad?"

"Well, I'm afraid not. Her descriptive powers are limited to saying that Venice is 'just grand' and Paris 'too charming for anything.'"

FOR WEDDING FINERY

SOME HINTS ON A SUBJECT ALWAYS INTERESTING.

Large Amount of Money Need Not Be Expended, If One Only "Knows How"—Making a Smart Reception Dress.

Those who fancy that there is a season specially smart for tying the wedding knot are surely behind the times, for investigation proves that human hearts have no particular time for mating. Just at this moment, in fact, dressmakers are much occupied with bridal finery.

For the altar gown designed with a long and important train the old satin duchess is advised, this superb material lending just the proper dignity for this ever-becoming detail. But, alas, satin duchess never grows any cheaper, and it is not surprising when one examines the qualities now offered. They are "as thick as boards," which makes it impossible for the grand satins to be used for anything but trains and a small portion of the bodice. The rest of the gown must be of lace, chiffon, or beaded net. A pale shade of ivory is the smartest tint for the duchess satin, and it is noticed that even in quite cheap materials this mellow white is more effective than the older shades. The touch of creaminess, indeed, takes away the cheap look, so please remember that point when buying bridal fineries.

For the bride's going-away gown, cloth is still much in favor, all the coat suits seen displaying skimpy short skirts with the inevitable hobble influence. A shade of light faded blue, combined with black moire silk, was recently used for one very smart traveling frock, the vest of which was of cherry red charmeuse richly embroidered. Gray, golden brown, some dull smoky violets, cherry red cloth, and grape and king's blue are other colors approved for the bride's traveling frock. But the coat must have a contrast in color in the trimming, this in the collar, cuffs and vest, if there is one, while the bride's traveling shoes match the edge of her skirt in color, and her hat show the two schemes.

The kimono bodice with a tunic drop below, or else a full skirt hobbled with a band or tucks of shirring, is a favorite design for those dainty house gowns, which are made of any thin, softly falling goods one can afford to get. Here, too, colors are exceedingly brilliant, apple green, luminous shades of red, pink and violet all being de rigeur.

The illustration gives a charming indoor dress that many a deft home sewer could turn out for ten dollars or less, and it would be just the thing a bride would need for the little functions that must be given for her own and her husband's friends. As illustrated, the frock is of white marquisette over a white silk slip, with a skirt band of "grape-green" chiffon and a silk passementerie of green and white grapes and leaves on the bodice. The folded belt is of green panne velvet, and the undersleeves are of a thin French lace.

Any soft diaphanous material would be charming for this costume, and with appropriate trimmings it could be developed in a delicately toned cashmere, a cotton voile, a thin figured silk, etc. The silk would respond to a guipure or velvet band, the cotton would require only a pretty ribbon banding, and the cashmere might be self trimmed. But choose radiant colors for the cheaper materials, and where the frock is to be untrimmed have a dainty lace tucker and undersleeves to offset the plainness.

BLOUSES OF STRIPED MUSLIN

The One Most Notable Innovation of the Season Revives an Old Fashion.

The innovation in this season's blouses is the use of muslin in white and colored stripes. Pink and white, red and white—the peppermint candy, muslin which was fashionable a quarter of a century ago—is in first fashion. The most expensive as well as the cheapest blouses are made of it. Blue and white is also popular, and as for the black and white, and gray and white stripes, there is no end to them. The latter, by the way, is more fashionable and artistic than the majority of women realize. There is a certain blur about the gray stripe that is becoming and allows it to be worn with a wider variety of suits than the sharply marked black and white stripes.

After a whole morning spent in looking over the French and American wash waists, upon which were put the highest mark of approval, I found that the kimono sleeve shared its popularity with the small sleeve put in at the regular armhole; neither one is more fashionable than the other; also, sleeves to the wrist were in as much demand as sleeves to the elbow, although it was admitted that the latter was the newer style.

Nearly all of them were without collars. The neck was arranged for a stock if one wished it, but usually it was shaped to fit the immensely popular sailor collar, which comes in a variety of shapes and is made of exquisite materials. Expensive ones are of Old World batiste and fine muslin, with wheels of eyelet embroidery.

MUST SUIT THE FURNISHINGS

Suitable Cushions Should Be Carefully Chosen if Best Results Are to Be Secured.

Suitable cushions add a great deal to the furnishings of a room, and the woman of taste will study her house before putting delicately tinted satin cushions in a room fitted up in mission furniture and brasses, or heavy leather cushions in a daintily appointed parlor.

In the library one would naturally suppose the furnishings to be of a solid nature, and here the cushions would be leather, heavy linen or any material of a heavy appearance. The Persian tapestry squares are generally pretty and are heavy enough to be suitable for the room furnished in mission.

The dark yet glowing colors in these squares serve to brighten without lending a gaudy appearance. Another good choice is the corduroy cushion trimmed merely with a heavy metallic cord around the edges.

As a rule the drawing room cushions are better made of satin embroidered, braided or in some cases hand-painted.

NEW WEDDING PLACE CARDS

Designers Have Come Forward This Season With Some Very Pretty Designs.

Many new ideas there are to be had for the looking, for the fashionable stationers keep designers busy and one is always sure to find something new.

Cupid up in an airship is surely up-to-date—so, too, is a fat and rosy little Cupid propelling an aeroplane. These are not so large as to be unattractive and are not very expensive, either.

Then there is the ever-popular bride-and-groom place cards—with the new matron hanging devotedly upon her brand new husband's arm, while the little Love God follows along behind, wearing a bland and beaming smile.

Another new conceit is the sailor Cupid—a wee Tar, dressed in wings, smile and sailor cap—perched on top of a round life-preserver .

But there are the more conventional ideas also—wedding bells, lilies of the valley, wedding rings and hearts aplenty.

For Bridesmaids.

The majority of bridesmaids' frocks are made up in corn-color, blue, mauve, champagne or apricot tones, though the rule is that any light, delicate tone which the bride may fancy is suitable for it. Picture effects rather than strictly fashionable ones are sought for in such dresses, but these, of course, are made to conform to prevailing ideas in dress.

Just now all girl attendants' dresses are short and narrow. They run to the extremely slim dress with perhaps a foot trimming (either a band or embroidery) and seamless sleeves or those that close about the arms snugly. Swan's-down trims many of the palerhued dresses.—Harper's Bazar.

New Pouch Bags.

Pouch bags are cut with an oval bottom, covered with black velvet on one side and a bright-colored satin on the other. The top, which is joined to the bottom without fulness, is finished on top with black satin ribbon. It is lined with the satin.

The top has draw string of satin ribbon through a casing, long enough to hang over the arm. The lining may be in coral, green, burnt orange or royal purple.

Hats Trimmed High.

Many of the small hats are built up to a great height by the use of flowers, loops of ribbon and upstanding plumes. A great many plumes are seen and the majority of these are in lovely shaded effects and when used on the small hat almost invariably are attached upstanding.

WHY ODD WORE OVERCOAT

Day Was Warm, but Fashion Mentor's Trousers Hadn't Been Pressed for Two Days.

Delos Odd is a clerk in the office of a broker. Now, Delos has been pronounced by a certain authority as the man's fashion mentor of the town. Some time ago the broker had a rush order to fill in the sale of some bonds. The wasting of a few minutes might mean that the sale would fall through and that the broker lose a fat commission.

"Delos, run to the bank and get those bonds. Be quick," the boss ordered.

The bank was less than a half block away. The weather was quite warm. With deliberation Delos slipped on his coat and then his overcoat and went out. In a few minutes he returned with the bonds. The sale was made and the customer left.

"Now, will you kindly tell me, Mr. Odd," the broker asked, after a preliminary sputter or two, "just why you stopped to put on your overcoat to go such a short distance, and especially when the weather is so warm?" Odd's face showed surprise that such a question should even be asked.

"Why, sir," he said, with a patronizing smile, "didn't you notice that my trousers hadn't been pressed for two days?"

A Nebraska Panther Cave.

A panther's den with ten kittens cuddled up in it was found a few days ago on the ranch of H. T. Richards, a few miles west of South Bend in Cass county.

Mr. Richards and some of his men noticed a cave in the side of the canon. After enlarging the opening one of the men, Grover Otte, entered. Back in the cave ten or twelve feet he found the ten kittens. When one of them was brought to the entrance it was found to be a baby panther.

Mr. Otte is now raising the kittens at his home. Since the discovery of the kittens neither of the parent animals has been seen. Several times a strange animal has been seen in the vicinity of South Bend and farmers complained about the mysterious disappearance of suckling pigs, lambs and chickens.—Lincoln correspondence Kansas City Star.

The Airman's Heart.

M. Dastre, one of the professors in the Faculty of Sciences in Paris, recently read a paper before the academy, the subject dealt with being "Mal des Aviateurs." The trouble of aviators is said to be very like mountain sickness, only it comes on much more rapidly. The sensation is experienced at a height of about 4,000 feet and again in the descent.

One thing M. Dastre endeavored to impress upon his hearers was that a sound heart was before all things necessary for those ascending to great heights. Another point of advice was that any one who had experienced ill effects from an ascent should not allow the matter to rest when the sensations had passed away. He should make a point of consulting his doctor at the earliest opportunity.

DIPLOMACY IN THE HOTEL

Some People Might Call It Lying, but the Guest Was Quite Satisfied.

"Sometimes it is an awkward matter to get a temporary tenant out of a suite that has been promised for a certain day," a hotel manager said, "and you have to use diplomacy in such a case. Occasionally lying is necessary.

"A man from San Francisco came to us in the busy season and the only thing we could do for him was to detach a room with bath from a suite that was promised for the next day. He was to stay over only one night, anyhow, we understood. But he did not leave and the family we expected came in. I was in a quandary, but as the San Franciscan was downtown I had his clothes and baggage moved out to a room upstairs that fortunately fell vacant. When he came in I thought for a moment and then I said: 'I am sorry, Mr. X, but I have had to move your things out of that room.'

"'Why was that?' he demanded, flaring up.

"'We discovered that the ceiling was leaking.'

"'Good gracious! My clothes didn't get wet, did they?" he demanded.

"He was much relieved when I assured him that they didn't; so much so that he made no kick at all."—New York Sun.

Johnny Cake's Name.

Johnny cake is certainly about as queer bread as was ever got up. Tip has never seen any true account of it whatsoever. Pone dough is molded around an iron musket ramrod or on a long green strong switch and held over the fire until roasted or baked, or whatever you call it. In old times Gen. Forrest's men cooked cornmeal rations, hence Johnny cake, Johnny Reb. Tip has heard old Texas say that Sam Houston to his dying day ate such corn cakes, which he learned to make from his long life among the nomads.—New York Press

Rheumacide
IT CURES

Rheumatism and Blood Diseases

The cause of rheumatism is excess uric acid in the blood. To cure rheumatism this acid must be expelled from the system. Rheumatism is an internal disease and requires an internal remedy. Rubbing with oils and liniments may ease the pain, but they will no more cure rheumatism than paint will change the fiber of rotten wood.

Cures Rheumatism To Stay Cured.

Science has discovered a perfect and complete cure called Rheumacide. Tested in hundreds of cases, it has effected marvelous cures. Rheumacide removes the cause, gets at the joints from the inside, sweeps the poisons out of the system, tones up the stomach, regulates the bowels and kidneys. Sold by druggists at 50c. and $1; in the tablet form at 25c. and 50c., by mail. Booklet free.

HOW TO CURE ECZEMA, ITCH AND ALL SKIN DISEASES

Don't suffer a moment longer with Eczema, or any form of skin or blood troubles. Don't scratch or rub the skin. Just apply Hancock Sulphur Compound to the affected spots and it will stop the itching at once, and cure the trouble permanently. One 50c bottle will cure that prevalent trouble, Common Itch. Nothing cures skin troubles so quickly as Hancock Sulphur Compound. To beautify the complexion and remove black heads and pimples, use Hancock Sulphur Ointment, 25c. Mrs. Evelyn Garst, of Salem, Va., writes: "Three years ago I had a rough place on my cheek, it would burn and itch. I was fearful it might be of a cancerous nature. I used different preparations, but nothing ever helped it. One bottle of Sulphur Compound cured me completely. I recommend it to any one having any skin disease." THEIR MINDS FOCUS WRONG

Why Many Persons Fail to Perceive Events Clearly and in the Right Proportion.

The verlest amateur in photography knows that a view of an object may be completely distorted by being out of focus, and thus give an entirely wrong notion of its relative proportions. To get the correct focus the eye of the camera must be neither too close nor too far from what is to be photographed.

So it is with the human vision, though merely a mental photograph, the same precision of focus is necessary to arrive at relative values. The trouble with too many people is that their minds focus wrong, and grasp events at either too near or too great distance, or from extreme angles, or magnify unimportant details at the expense of the vital elements.

The man who is out of focus with his surroundings or with the subject he is discussing is quite common, and the peculiar ideas of which he becomes obsessed are as bizarre as a photograph made by a freak camera. To get such a man back into focus is much more difficult than to adjust a lens, yet that is precisely what must be done in order to give him clear perception and enable him to see things in their right relation.—Omaha Bee.

EXTRAVAGANCE IN THE POSTOFFICE DEPARTMENT

Revelations of Extravagances of "Business Man" at Head of Department—Hitchcock's Ideas of Economy Are Most Peculiar—Some Illustrations.

Special to Telegram.

Washington, June 15.—Thirty-five dollar wastepaper baskets, $298 desks and $350 tables were some of the little economies affected by Postmaster General Hitchcock in refurnishing his "red room" and "brown room" offices. These and other examples of Republican extravagance were revealed in testimony taken by the House committee on expenditures in the Postoffice Department.

Mr. Hitchcock sanctioned the expenditure of $7,500 in refurnishing three rooms, $4,000 of which went to furnishing the Postmaster General's private office alone. Circassian walnut furnishings especially designed and manufactured, and specially designed carpets and draperies furnished the nucleus of this expenditure.

In no instance were bids advertised for, or competition permitted. The lucky dealer had but to state his price and secure an order upon the treasury. Five hundred and forty dollars purchased two Mahogany davenports for American royalty; $330 brought in two arm chairs; $98 produced a table; $295 purchased a second desk, and $160 a third. A wardrobe to hang coats in cost $265. One rug was purchased at $483.75 Another davenport in Circassian walnut "with pillow" cost Uncle Sam $365. A telephone table cost $64. A table with black marble top also cost $64. It cost $352 to "scrape" the woodwork in the private office preparatory to new finish.

Such was the measure of Mr. Hitchcock's economy in matters pertaining to his own personal comfort. In matters concerning the employees—the railway mail clerks for instance—he followed entirely different lines of procedure.

Mr. Hitchcock figured it out one day that by making three men do the work of four, he could make a record for economy in the railway mail division. The already overworked railway mail clerks were driven beyond the limit of endurance. Conditions in the west, especially in the tenth division, became intollerable. Open rebellion broke out on the Pierre-Tracy line, the men refusing to do the extra work imposed on them. Ten men were suspended. Then five of them were reinstated, but refused to return to work without their associaates. This aroused the whole northwest. The clerks met in mass-meeting at St. Paul, Minn. They are now forcing the postmaster general to relent in his plan to economize by overworking the railway mail boys.

Strange working of the Hitchcock economy bump also caused the Postmaster General to pay the full year salary of $5,000 to A. W. Lawshe, third assistant postmaster general, while the latter sojourned in New Mexico recuperating in health and looking after the interests of the Republican party, but performing no government service whatever.

Still another example of Hitchcock economy was his appointment of a pseudo "lame duck commission" of four of his intimate friends and staunch political supporters to go on a sort of Holy Grail conquest at the government's expense. The commission investigated "time recorders" in various cities, and managed to disburse in expenses sums that would have gone a long way toward making unnecessary the discharge of railway mail clerks.

The average amount spent by each of the committees for subsistence was between nine and ten dollars a day. Transportation expenses for each man for a period of less than two months, averaged $300. Among many items of expenditures charged to and paid by Uncle Sam appear barber fees, bath charges, telephone bills, shines, news stand charges, in fact, almost everything possible in such a category except laundry, cigars and florists' bills. The Hotel Willard in Washington, the Astor in New York, and kindred hostelries were employed to shelter the government emmissaries. Porter fees averaged 50 cents. The "commissioners" always purchased Pullman tickets, and cab fares are thickly sprinkled among the vouchers. Sometimes the commissioners traveled alone, but generally together, as behooves any well-ordered, pleasure loving government committee.

How gratifying all this must be to the discharged postal clerks while they sit and figure out how much the government is "saving" on them.

Appropriate Committeeships.

The Senate committees are now all formed for the session. Some of the committee appointments appear singularly appropriate.

Senator DuPont is chairman of the Senate committee on military affairs. It is appropriate to the last degree that DuPont should head this committee, inasmuch as the Senator is the head of the powder trust.

It is appropriate, too, that Senator Guggenhein should be made chairman of the committee on the Philippines, and a member of the committee of agriculture and forestry, on conservation of natural resources, mines and mining and public lands. Considering Guggenheim's connection with the Morgan-Guggenheim Alaska syndicate, notorious for its exploitation projects and its prominence in the Ballinger scandal, it is singularly appropriate these committeeships happened to fall as they did.

Senator Crane is a member of the committee on interstate and foreign commerce. When the late Mr. Elkins was its head the committee referred bills intended to curb the telegraph and telephone monopoly to a sub-committee of which Crane was chairman. Crane is the largest holder of telephone and telegraph and general electric stock in the world. The bills never got out of the pigeonholes of Mr. Crane's desk.

Most appropriate (or inappropriate) of all is the appointment of Senator Lorimer to the committee on agriculture and forestry. As a member of the House committee on agriculture Lorimer fought the pure food bills and butterine regulation law for the Chicago beef trust, and there is little doubt but that the Stock Yards boss is under even more obligations to the beef trust now than he was while a representative.

It will be noted that the designation of this committee is "agriculture and forestry." Lorimer's interest in forestry might be explained by Mr. Hines, that prominent member of the lumber trust who "put him over."

RADICAL VIEWS ON MARRIAGE

Ellen Key, Gifted Swedish Woman, Favors Changes That Would Alter Face of Society.

From Berlin issues the voice of Ellen Key, a voice at once very radical and very pure. This gifted woman, whom Havelock Ellis has lately pronounced "one of the chief moral forces of our time," was born in Sweden. For twenty years she occupied the chair of history and civilization in Sweden, at the popular University of Stockholm. She has written and lectured constantly on social questions and her best known books, including "The Century and the Child," have been translated into several European tongues. The first two volumes of her most extensive work, "Lines of Life," have just appeared for the first time in English in a book entitled "Love and Marriage."

Ellen Key frankly regards the marriage institution as in a state of flux, and she seems to sum up in her book every phase of the marital unrest now abroad in the world. We are compelled to choose, she declares, between the idea of monogamous marriage, as divinely ordained, and the idea of marriage as an expression of the claims of human life. She herself accepts the latter alternative. "With ever-growing seriousness," she says, "the new conception of morality is affirmed; that the race does not exist for the sake of monogamy, but monogamy for the saks of the race; that mankind is therefore master of monogamy to preserve or to abolish it." Ellen Key does not propose to abolish monogamy, but she favors changes in the marriage code so radical that, if indorsed by the conscience of mankind, they would change the whole face of society.—Current Literature.

Manuscript of Thirteenth Century.

While reading a French book of the sixteenth century in the university library, St. Andrews, the German lecturer, Dr. Schaaffs, noticed some fragments of an old French poem which the binder had pasted on back and covers of the book.

After loosening them he removed the glue and out of the four pieces obtained composed two larger pieces, parts of two leaves of a manuscript written in a beautiful and clear type in two columns of thirty-nine lines each, 144 in all, with red and blue initials. The names occurring in the text leave no doubt that the fragments contain parts of the old French chason "Le Roman de Girard de Viane," and from the language and the script it appears that the manuscript was written between 1250 and 1300.

Mother—Oh, see, Willie, your little brother can stand all alone! Aren't you glad?

Willie (aged six)—Rather! Now I can get him to hold an apple on his head while I shoot it off with my bow and arrow, can't I?

WILSON LIKELY TO OPPOSE TAFT

New Jersey Governor Seems to Have the Lead Now.

HELPED BY WESTERN TOUR.

Friends of Governor Harmon and Speaker Clark Do Not Concede That the Democratic Nomination Is Settled, and La Follette Has Backers For the Republican Leadership.

By ARTHUR W. DUNN.

Washington, June 15.—(Special.)—That Taft and Wilson will be the opposing candidates for president is the impression of the best political judges at the present time. Of course everything is subject to change, but there is not the slightest doubt about the nomination of President Taft. It is doubtful if any one will be presented to the Republican national convention in opposition to him, although there is talk among insurgents that Senator La Follette will be their candidate.

No doubt the talk about Governor Wilson has received an impetus on account of his recent trip through the country, together with the implication that Bryan is ready to support him. The friends of Governor Harmon and Champ Clark are far from conceding that the Democratic nomination is settled, although there is so much Wilson talk in the air.

Friends of Taft are carrying the Republican convention with a rush just now, and that is true to some extent of the friends of Wilson. But it is a year before the conventions assemble, and much can happen in a year.

King Caucus.

One crowd of men are not much better than another crowd of men, although they may have different party predilections. For instance, Congressman Madison of Kansas is an insurgent. He never did like the way the Cannon crowd and the Republican majority in the past congresses ran the house. He therefore became actively insurgent and bolted and expressed the opinion that he would not stand for machine made rules or caucus dictation.

When the discussion began upon the wool bill he pleaded with Chairman Underwood to limit general debate to which no one listened and give a wider range to debate under the five minute rule, when more members would be present and the debate might be more effective. During the colloquy it developed and Underwood stated that the caucus of the Democratic party had declared for the bill and that it would be passed as presented without amendment.

No greater exhibition of "king caucus" rule has ever been known or more frankly declared. The fact is that the party in power rules with an iron hand as long as it can. Both parties try for caucus support and try to bind the recalcitrants. That is what the Democrats have done. The Republicans had sixteen years of that kind of management, and then there was a revolt. The difference between the parties and the party managers in this regard is so small that it cannot be discovered by a microscope.

Congressmen Will Be Absent.

Unlimited general debate on the wool schedule by the house has had the effect of sending the majority of the members to their summer homes, the seashore or to places outside of Washington. No one cares what is said or who says it. The present congressional interest centers largely in the senate.

Best Summer Resort.

The president ought to spend the summer in Washington, according to Senator Nelson of Minnesota. Having called congress here, he thinks Mr. Taft should stay with it. Washington is a good presidential summer resort, he says.

"Senators will be grayer than they are now before the reciprocity bill passes," said Nelson, with all the viking blood showing in his countenance. The impression seems to be that Nelson means to fight the reciprocity bill to the death.

Partial Victory.

The new Lorimer investigating committee was in reality elected by the senate as proposed by Senator La Follette, which is a partial victory for the Wisconsin senator. But the committee selected is one chosen by a combination of the conservative elements in both parties, who have shown that they do not intend to be run by the new and radical elements.

La Follette has thirteen senators on the Republican side who vote with him and about the same number on the Democratic side. A few years ago he stood alone as being too radical to have support from members of either party, while he now seems to have a strong following on both sides of the political aisle. The condition in the senate shows what rapid changes occur in politics.

Culberson on Hand.

Although Senator Culberson was not chosen minority leader, he is at all times on hand looking after the interests of the Democratic party. He once held the position, and he cannot very well avoid taking up the work when there is an opportunity to score a Democratic point. But for years the minority leadership has been somewhat nebulous owing to the desire of so many men to be their own leaders.

After Maine Is Raised Wreck Will Be Sunk In the Deep Sea

WHEN the battleship Maine is raised, which will be within a few weeks, the hulk will be towed to deep water in the gulf of Mexico and sunk—that is, this will be done unless congress orders a different disposition of the wreck that has lain in the mud of Havana harbor for thirteen years. The board of engineers in charge of raising the Maine has advised that this be done with the wreck after it is stripped of all articles of value and the secretary of war has approved the recommendation, he tells congress. The cofferdam about the wreck is practically completed, according to the official report, and soon the work of pumping out the water will be started. The plan is to pump out the water until a considerable portion of the wreck is exposed to clear it of salvage, bodies and personal effects and then pump out more water until another deck is exposed. This process will be continued until the entire wreck is clear and the complete examination of the hull of the vessel is possible. The picture above shows the wreck as it appeared a few days ago. It will be noticed that the huge cylinders forming the cofferdam about the vessel have been filled with clay.

DR. WALTERS EXTRACTED FINAL STING OF HORNETS

Errors by Locals And Bases by Banswine Responsible For Victory of Doyleites Yesterday—The Score Three And Two, Walters Making Winning Run.

Charlotte, June 15.—The chief characteristic of today's game was the pitching of Bauswine and the errors of the locals. Dr. Walters allowed eleven will scattered hits, but he was given good support, 14 Hornets being left on bases. Bauswine walked half a dozen men, but allowed but three hits. Walters took one of the three hits credited to his team and brought in the winning run.

GOOD EXHIBITION AT ANDERSON WAS A RELIEF TO FANS

Anderson, S. C. June 15—Both pitchers were in good form and though the locals took the lead early and kept it, the result was in doubt until the last. Anderson finally won 3 to 1. Spartanburg played hard for the big end but the snappy playing of the Electricians kept them from scoring. There were no plays of especial interest but the good exhibition was a relief to the fans.

DIAMOND DUST

Where They Play Today.

Greensboro at Winston.
Anderson at Charlotte.
Spartanburg at Greenville.

The monotony will end today.

"Rube" Eldridge will probably oppose Swindell today.

Everybody get ready to go to Winston on the excursion tomorraw.

Walters is again taking on "them winning ways."

Guess the Patriots and Twins will be more than two points apart tomorrow.

Considering the number of hits we got three runs was doing very well.

Special train for Winston leaves tomorrow at 1:45. Fare for round trip $1.80. Boys, 50 cents.

Triturated Baseball From The Charlotte Chronicle.

Doylye and Stewart got the lion's share of the hits for the visitors.

We can't win 'em all—when they play as they did yesterday.

Stewart swats the ball mighty hard for a little fellow.

Anything that gets through the Greensboro infield is a hit—they don't error.

If Doyle will trade short stops with us we can lick the lard out of the Patriots.

It was nip and tuck for seven innings, then Doyle nipped Charlotte's chances and "tuck" the game.

KLING TO MANAGE BOSTON NATIONALS

Pittsburg, Pa., June 15.—Johnny Kling, formerly catcher for the Chicago Cubs, has been made manager of the Boston Nationals. He assumed charge of the team today.

Lock Smith Drops Dead.

Washington, June 15.—Joseph Durnbaugh, of Mechanicsburg, Pa., an expert locksmith, employed in the Treasury Department, dropped dead today while attempting to open a safe in the White House offices, under instructions. Durnbaugh was seventy years old.

HOME RUNS ABOUND ON DIAMOND AT WINSTON-SALEM

Winston-Salem, June 15.—Four home runs were made in the game which Winston-Salem took from Greenville this afternoon by the score of 12 to 6. Stewart had the visitors shut out until the sixth when he blew up, allowing six hits which counted for six runs. In this awful frame Sharpe and Doak both hit one over the fence, Doak with one on, and Sharpe with two. In the seventh Mullin got two safeties, stole three bases, and made two runs; Schumaker and Edwards each lifted one over the fence. In each case there were two men on.

WANTS MORE EVIDENCE

Affidavit Asking It Is Filed in Eddy Will Case.

Concord, N. H., June 15.—An affidavit filed in the United States Circuit Court here today by Dr. Ebenezer J. Foster Eddy, adopted son of the late Mary Baker Eddy, asks that the testimony of several persons be taken in connection with the suit brought by Dr. Foster Eddy to have the residuary clause of Mrs. Eddy's will declared void and the residue of her estate divided between himself and George W. Glover, of Lead, S. D., Mrs. Eddy's son. Former United States Senator William E. Chandler, counsel for Glover; Stephen A. Chase, treasurer of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, Boston; Calvin A. Frye, formerly Mrs. Eddy's secretary and coachman; Mrs. Augusta E. Stetson, of New York; Alvin M. Cushing and Daniel H. Spofford are named in the affidavit.

The facts desired to be brought out by this testimony relate to Mrs. Eddy's so-called discovery of the act of healing disease, her relations with Mrs. Stetson, details of the organization and finances of the First Church of Christ, Scientist, of Boston, and the manner in which the agreement was procured whereby Messrs. Glover and Foster Eddy, in consideration of a money settlement, agreed not to contest Mrs. Eddy's will.

Complex Accomplishment.

"I understand you speak French like a native."

"No," replied the student; "I've got the grammar and the accent down pretty fine. But it's hard to learn the gestures."

Excursion to Raleigh.

The Sunday school of the Reformed church will conduct an excursion to Raleigh tomorrow, the fare for the round trip being $1.50. In addition to the members of the school and congregation a large number of Greensboro people are preparing to take advantage of the low rate to spend a day in the Capital City of the State. The train leaves at 7:30 o'clock.

Building Permits.

Building Inspector Milton yesterday issued a permit to A. B. Goodwin for the erection of a $1,600 residence on Blandwood avenue. Also a permit to Rev. W. R. Cox for the erection of an addition to the Bible Training school on Silver Run avenue, the estimated cost being $600.

It takes a wise man to say nothing at the right time.
